DEMOCRAT TAX RATES RE-VOTED 6-39 IN SENATE

Final Passage of Bill Due Today.

Washington, D. C., May 9.—(Special.)—Democratic surtax and normal tax rates were again approved today by the senate as the tax bill was advanced almost to the point of final passage.

Republican leaders made a last unsuccessful effort to obtain a compromise after the bill went from the committee of the whole into the senate proper.

The senate rejected a substitute surtax schedule with a maximum of 32 per cent, and then approved the Simmons surtaxes with a maximum of 40 per cent in a direct issue between the Democratic rates and the Longworth rates of the house bill.

Farm Bill Delays Vote.

The bill would have been passed to-night except for a controversy involving the attempt of Senator Norbeck (Rep., S. D.) to add the McNary-Haugen agricultural export corporation bill to the tax measure as a rider. Senator Norbeck asked that action on the bill be deferred until tomorrow in order that he may ascertain whether or not house Republican leaders propose to permit the McNary-Haugen bill to come up for action.

The house rules committee is scheduled to take action tomorrow morning on proposed special rule for the consideration of the agricultural measure. Senator Norbeck said that if action in the house is inured, which will mean the house bill if passed will come to the senate within a short time, he will not press the McNary-Haugen bill amendment to the tax measure. However, he will continue his fight to amend.

The senate entered into an unanimous consent agreement to take final action on further debate at 2 o'clock tomorrow.

Simmons Surtax Wins.

The Simmons surtax rates were approved by the senate even more decisively than at the first of the action committee of the whole. The vote in favor of the Simmons rates as against the Longworth rates of the house bill was 46 to 39, while the previous vote was 43 to 40.

Seven Republicans and the two Farmer-Labor members voted with the Democrats in support of the Simmons surtaxes. The Republicans voting for them were Senators Brookhart (Rep., Iowa), Frazier (Rep., N. D.), and Ladd (Rep., N. D.). Howell (Rep., Neb.), Norris (Rep., Neb.), Norbeck (Rep., S. D.), and Johnson (Rep., Cal.), Senators Johnson (Minn., Farmer-Labor) and Shipstead (Minn., Farmer-Labor) joined them. Three Democrats, Senators Bayard (Dem., Del.), Bland (Dem., Mo.), and Glass (Dem., Va.), voted with conservative Republicans against the Simmons rates.

75% Maximum Fails.

An amendment by Senator Smoot (Rep., Utah), chairman of the finance committee, proposing a compromise surtax schedule with a maximum of 75 per cent on that portion of income above $200,000 was rejected by a vote of 39 to 47. The same Republicans and Farmer-Labor members supporting the Simmons rates voted against this amendment. Senators Bayard and Shipstead were the only Democrats voting for the amendment.

Senator Smoot did not consider it worth while to ask for a roll call on the Simmons normal tax rates, which were approved by a viva voce vote.

This provision recommended by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon eliminated by the senate finance committee was restored by a vote of 45 to 46. It was designed to reach partially exempt security situation and provide that deductions from net income for interest on indebtedness and losses other than incurred in carrying on business may be permitted only the amount in excess of income from exempt securities.

Add $35,000,000 Revenue.

Estimation of this provision meant $35,000,000 in revenue, the treasury had estimated that the original session would bring in $35,000,000 in new revenue.

In spite of this action showing a purpose to limit somewhat holdings in exempt securities, the senate rejected by an overwhelming vote an amendment of Senator Reed (Rep., Pa.) providing that income from state and municipal securities issued hereafter shall be subject to taxation. The vote was 44 to 59.

The senate adopted an amendment of Senator Walsh (Dem., Mass.) repealing the tax on automobile parts, which was passed by a vote of 43 to 38.

CHEERS GREET MUNDELEIN AT GOTHAM PORT

Ship Delayed by an Errand of Mercy.

BY JOHN HERRICK.

New York, May 9.—(Special.)—Cardinal Mundelein came back to America tonight. He leaves for Chicago over the Baltimore and Ohio tomorrow, arriving at Chicago Sunday, 2:35 p. m.

The one time parochial school boy of Brooklyn, who sailed away on the Berengaria two months and a day ago with the title of archbishop, returned on that same Berengaria today, bearing with him the highest honor, expected only the supreme office of Rome, which the Roman Catholic church can bestow on her priests.

Wearing the scarlet skull cap and the ring of his newest dignity, Chicago's first prince of the church set foot on American soil at 9 o'clock by eastern standard time, ten hours later than his scheduled time for docking.

Welcome Made More Simple.

It was not the extensive greeting that had been prepared for him that he received. But it was a greeting he never will forget.

All day the Berengaria had plowed through wind, rain, and smoking seas, the horizon dimmed by fog, while in New York 260 Chicago priests and laymen waited impatiently for the word of his coming.

It was by a brief wireless message that the waiting delegation learned that part of the delay had been caused by a tragedy of the sea in which the cardinal's ship took the part of the Good Samaritan.

On Errand of Mercy.

An explosion in the engine room of the Baltimore Steamship company's freighter, Maj. Wheeler, injured the chief engineer, Leon Anderson. And a cardinal, a boatload of anxious passengers, and the welcoming committee put their impatience aside while the Berengaria turned twenty miles out of its course to take on board the injured man, that he might have efficient surgical aid.

Darkness had settled before the wounded man had been transhipped across the driving waves. Rain was falling as the word came to the committee at the Hotel Vanderbilt, that the cardinal's ship was at last nearing quarantine.

Only a few of the church dignitaries and of the laymen were in the party that went down to the Battery and set off in the municipal tug Macon.

First, plunging through the murk, came the Macon, flanked by police patrol boats. After that the hundreds of dim lit faces which lined the railings of the waiting liner.

"There's the boat," he cried. "The fellow with the plug hat."

The dance music on board the liner stopped and curious heads peered over the side. The Macon's searchlight played over the great ship while a gang plank was thrust out from its side, and the dozen priests and laymen walked across to greet the cardinal.

The rain had stopped falling for a few minutes when Cardinal Mundelein appeared. Briefly he passed on the gang plank while newspaper photographers greeted him in their own way.

From the circling boats the firemen's band burst forth again with the Star Spangled Banner, passengers and well-wishers took off their hats and cheered, as the cardinal raised his hat to show the red skull cap in the white light and the smoke of the flares and flashlights.

Cardinal Boas Macom.

Accompanied by the committee which was headed by Mgr. Edward A. Kelly, and D. F. Kelly of Chicago, and Grover Whalen and Rodman Wanamaker for New York, the cardinal came on board.

Smiling, as the mist began its drizzle again, the new cardinal stood on the afterdeck of the Macon while still more flares were burnt and the movie cameras cranked their records.

Then he proceeded to the cabin, which had been decorated in his honor. For a moment the reporters had their turn. Laughing often, always smiling, Cardinal Mundelein spoke his first message for America.

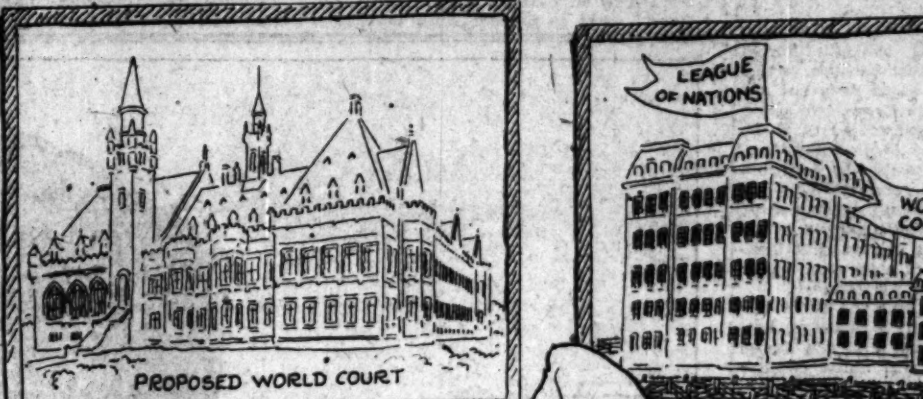

Glad to Reach America.

"I am glad beyond measure to get back," he beamed. "Everywhere I went on the other side I found they were surprised at the interest taken by Chicago in the head of its church, and I was glad to be here."

MENTAL PATIENT KILLS HIS WIFE, THEN HIMSELF

Charles H. Huebsch, a locomotive ataxia patient, at the Oak Forest infirmary, paid an unexpected visit yesterday to his wife, Anne, and two children at 10731 Buffalo avenue. First he sat down and wrote an epistle to her, then he took a .38 caliber revolver and fired a bullet into his wife's heart. Mrs. Huebsch picked up Lorraine Lindel, 2 year old daughter of her sister, Mrs. Ernest Lindel, living on the second floor, and started up the steps. She dropped dead midway of the flight with the child still in her arms.

Huebsch then pressed the weapon against his temple and fired again. He was taken to the South Chicago hospital, where he died early this morning. Mrs. Huebsch was 34 years old. Her husband is 45. There are two small children, 7 and 8 years old.

Charles Cleaver, 10238 South Elizabeth street, one of three men who engaged in a revolver battle with several policemen at 63d street and West 17th avenue on the night of Oct. 16, 1921, was acquitted by a jury in Judge Charles A. Williams' court last night of the murder of Policeman Paul Schmitt. One of Cleaver's companions, William Kirby, a former policeman, also was killed in the battle, and another, James "Iron Jaw" Ryan, was killed some time later.

Sets Stage for Murder; Stifles Self

After carefully arranging all the physical details attending his death in order to make it appear as if he had been murdered, John Arendt, a foreman employed by the Sherwin-Williams Paint company, ended his life yesterday under circumstances that caused Dr. Joseph Springer, coroner's physician, to pronounce it the "strangest suicide" he has investigated.

It was Arendt's sixteenth attempt at suicide since his second marriage last July.

His body with the hands bound behind his back and a heavy flannel gag covering his mouth and nostrils was found in a steel barrel in a small fan house on the roof of the paint company's plant at 111th street and Kensington avenue.

Grill Twenty-four Negroes.

So sure were the Kensington police the man had been murdered that they took into custody twenty-four Negro employees who worked under him and grilled them for several hours in quest of a motive for the crime.

It was Arendt's second wife, Mrs. Alma Arendt, who, attracted by the crowd at the police station just across the street from her home at 11458 Indiana avenue, came to satisfy her curiosity and learn of her husband's death. She was first to advance the suicide theory.

"He told me he would kill himself before another day had passed," she said. "I had threatened to leave him for good next Saturday because of his continuous quarreling and his attempts to end his life. His first wife was asphyxiated a year ago last October."

Tells of Former Attempts.

"He must have tried to kill himself ten times while we were still living at 15028 Lincoln avenue, Harvey. (Then he tried five more times after we came to Chicago. Once he was going to kill himself with a razor, but I hid it. Last night he knotted a necktie around his neck, but I stopped him. Then he said he'd not live another day. He didn't come home for lunch, and when I missed some iodine I suspected he might have taken it."

But no iodine was found in the victim's stomach. Dr. Springer stated the man's death was due simply to suffocation. The body was discovered in the fanhouse on the roof, a small brick superstructure, 6 by 8 feet in size, by Charles Tummeno, who went there to get some tools.

Point to Evidence.

Arendt's feet protruded from the barrel lying on its side on the floor. Late investigation disclosed a slipknot was around each wrist, showing he could have slipped his hands into the bonds himself. A piece of heavy flannel, torn from an old work shirt, was tied tightly enough across his

Mrs. Mary A. Von Lesmel was found unconscious in a room at the Hyde Park hotel last night, after she had taken poison.

According to the police, Mrs. Von Lesmel, who is 55 years old, is the divorced wife of a German army officer. She came to Chicago several weeks ago from Pasadena, Cal., to make this city her permanent home. It was said she was taken to the Illinois Central hospital, where police expected to get a statement upon her return to consciousness.

Bomb at Auto Supply House Rocks Vicinity

A terrific bomb explosion early this morning wrecked the establishment of the Landerman Auto Supply company on the first and second floors of a four story building at 1912 Wabash avenue. Half a dozen families living on the two upper floors of the building were driven to the streets in their night clothing.

Windows were shattered for a radius of three blocks. The concussion was so great that persons were hurled from their beds in the Lexington hotel at 224 street and Michigan avenue, the Calvert hotel at 18th and Wabash, and all the rooming houses along the street for a distance of three blocks.

Blows Out Big Windows.

Huge plate glass windows in the store of the L. Fish Furniture company at 1908 Wabash avenue, immediately to the north of the wrecked building, were blown out. Other store windows as far south as 21st street were shattered.

The police believe the bomb was intended for J. Bobbe & Co., a painting and decorating concern immediately to the south of the Landerman place, which, according to the police, is conducted on the "open shop" basis. They think it was thrown from a passing automobile, which was traveling at such high speed the bomb thrower missed his mark. It was the most powerful bomb, detectives say, that has been hurled in any of the recent labor troubles.

Hurled from Their Beds.

Mrs. Ida Nunn, who conducts a rooming house on the third floor of the wrecked building, and practically every one in her home was thrown from their beds, as were Mr. and Mrs. William Jones, who occupy the fourth floor. A rapid mad in the 37th story Cab garage at 1912 street and Michigan avenue was thrown from a chair in which he was sitting.

Jack Crayder, night clerk at the Wolf apartments, 1841 Wabash avenue, rushed through the seven story building, quieting guests who were running through the hallways in the belief the structure was about to collapse.

Front of Building Wrecked.

The entire front of the auto supply company's store was wrecked and thousands of dollars' worth of property blown to bits. The destruction of the front of the building, however, was not so extensive as the police estimated, will run into thousands of dollars.

The fire department was called out, but no flames followed the blast, and the firemen were set to work clearing away the debris which littered the sidewalks and streets.

MRS. WORK, WIFE OF SECRETARY, DIES SUDDENLY

Washington, D. C., May 9.—(Special.)—Mrs. Hubert Work, wife of the secretary of the interior, died suddenly today while taking a short automobile ride. Death was the result of angina pectoris, according to her physicians.

Mrs. Work left the Wardman Park hotel about 2 o'clock this afternoon for a ride, with only the chauffeur and a maid accompanying her. About 4 o'clock they returned. As they neared the hotel she dropped back in the arms of the maid. The maid, thinking that it was merely a case of fainting, ordered the chauffeur to drive to the home of a nearby physician. When they reached the doctor's residence, Mrs. Work was dead.

Tentative plans tonight were for a funeral at 2 p. m. on Monday from the New York Avenue Presbyterian church.

Mrs. Work is survived by two sons and a daughter in addition to her husband. The daughter is Mrs. A. W. Hissell of Evanston, Ill. The sons are Robert and Dr. Philip Work of Denver.

President and Mrs. Coolidge sent a message of sympathy to the family and issued orders for cancellation of all immediate social functions at the White House.

HOUSE IGNORES MOVE TO DELAY AND VOTES BAN

Solons in Hot Row; Veto Expected.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., May 9.—(Special.)—President Coolidge met a signal defeat today in his effort to procure a postponement until March 1, 1925, of the exclusion of Japanese immigration from the United States, before which time it aimed to negotiate an exclusion agreement with Japan.

By a vote of 151 to 171 the house ordered the immigration bill returned to the conference committee with instructions for the elimination of the postponement proviso inserted under pressure by the President. The bill is now scheduled to go to the President in the form originally perfected by the conference committee, before Mr. Coolidge intervened providing for exclusion of Japanese immigrants July 1, past, without further ceremony.

Veto Is Now Expected.

With the President feeling so strongly that exclusion should be accomplished not by law, but by negotiation with Japan, a veto of the immigration bill is regarded logical, in the opinion even of many who hope he will sign the measure. That he will be urged to veto the bill by the church organizations and other forces opposed to Japanese exclusion is not doubted.

If the vote in the house today be taken as an indication, it is by no means certain that a two-thirds majority of both houses will be secured to override a veto. If a veto were sustained and the Japanese exclusion provision killed, the President would be held responsible and on the Pacific coast the result might be disastrous to him politically. California, Oregon, and Washington, might go Democratic in the forthcoming presidential election.

Coolidge Is Criticized.

The rebuff to the President came at the end of a debate in which he was sharply criticized on the ground that he was attempting to usurp the legislative authority of the house at the instance of a foreign power. Despite strenuous efforts on the part of administration leaders, twenty-three Republicans joined with the Democrats in defeating the plan of the President.

The failure of the Japanese exclusion bill was provoked by a motion of Representative Johnson (Rep., Wash.), chairman of the immigration committee, that the house adopt the conference report on the immigration bill containing the two amendments relating to the date of the exclusion act, recommended by the President.

Sabotage Fights Motion.

This move was resisted by Representative Baker (Dem., Cal.) who had the support of most of the members from the Pacific coast. Representative Sabath (Dem., Ill.) was in the forefront of the fight against the administration program.

The vote by which the bill was recommended to conference followed a motion to that effect made by Sabath. Baker offered an amendment to the Sabath motion directing the conference to strike from the bill the two Coolidge amendments in controversy. The Sabath motion in its original form was carried by a vote of 183 to 174. The vote then resoured on the motion to recommend as amended by Mr. Baker. This was carried by a vote of 181 to 171.

Earlier in the proceedings Speaker Gillett had overruled points of order made by Baker and Sabath that in accepting the two Japanese amendments suggested by the President the conference had encroached their authority.

Chairman for Delay.

In urging the adoption of the conference report Chairman Johnson declared it would be a graceful thing to accede to the request of the President and the secretary of state that the date of Japanese exclusion be fixed for March 1, 1925, instead of earlier as proposed by the senate and the house. He insisted that it would in no wise affect the principle of exclusion. "The extension will not result in a flood of oriental immigration as has been suggested," he said.

"If it is true this legislation goes away with the gentlemen's agreement, why in God's name do you not insert a provision authorizing the President to terminate that arrangement," asked Representative Free of California.

"Does the gentleman want to be kind and decent to another nation or just hit it on the head?" replied Mr. Johnson.

Longworth for Acceptance.

Majority Leader Longworth urged the house to accept the conference report. He said the United States was on friendly terms with Japan and that no step should be taken that would tend to disrupt relations. He suggested that postponing the effective date of Japanese exclusion until time had been afforded the President to abrogate the gentlemen's agreement with Japan was a polite way of carrying out the will of Congress. Japan, he insisted, was entitled to such consideration. Addressing the members from California, Mr. Longworth said:

"You have won your long fight for Japanese exclusion. Why imperil your victory by rejecting this report or sending it back to conference? The people of this country are in favor of restrictive immigration. A vote against this report is against restrictive immigration as proposed."

Kansas Comes to Bat.

"Three classes are opposing the adoption of this conference report," shouted Representative Tinscher (Rep., Kan.). "First are those who are opposed to any immigration; second, the members from the west coast who are prejudiced whenever the word 'Japan' is mentioned; third, those ill advised persons who think they can get something out of Calvin Coolidge by turning down this report. Our opponents are trying to drag politics into this matter to that extent."

At this point Mr. Tinscher, who has a stentorian voice, was interrupted by cheers, hoots, and cat calls from the Democratic side.

"You can hoot all you want to," boomed Mr. Tinscher.

"Louder, louder," yelled the Democrats in derision.

Compliments to Hiram.

"No member of this house," said Mr. Tinscher, "has a right to vote against this report and claim that he is friendly to a law regulating immigration. It has been suggested that President Coolidge could not have carried California if it had not been that the people of the state thought that he was for Japanese exclusion. There is no body against Coolidge except Hiram Johnson and Hiram ought to find that out soon."

Raker denounces the modifications of President Coolidge. He declared that the house should not yield its power to legislate to the President. He charged that the effective date should be deferred until March 1, 1925, was a result of a "secret meeting" at the White House. He insisted that the effect of placing the Japanese on a quota basis between July 1, 1924, and March 1, 1925, would be to let in a flood of oriental immigration.

Rebukes Foreign Meddling.

He insisted that the senate and house should stand by the principle of the bills passed by an overwhelming majority in each body and thus rebuke a foreign power that sought to influence legislation through a protest made by its ambassador.

Representative Smith severely criticized the conference report as a whole. He said it was all very well to consider the susceptibilities of Japan, but that the same consideration should be accorded other nations. He charged that under senate amendments Great Britain would be granted the privilege of sending immigrants representing three-fifths of the total number admitted.

Daylight Having Dining Car.

During daylight saving period the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway will place its important evening passenger trains in Chicago Union Depot thirty minutes earlier than departing time, with dining cars open and ready to serve dinner.

This will enable passengers using the PIONEER LIMITED for St. Paul and Minneapolis, the ROCKY MOUNTAIN LIMITED for Glacier House and Glacier City, and the OMAHA-CHICAGO LIMITED for Des Moines and Omaha to have dinner in dining cars at the usual convenient hour.—Advt.

"ALL DELEGATES FOR COOLIDGE," MOTTO FOR G. O. P.

Johnson and La Follette Almost Forgotten.

BY PARKE BROWN.

President Coolidge's campaign managers are confident that at least 1,064 of the 1,103 votes in the Cleveland convention will be cast for him on the first ballot.

Early returns from Utah yesterday indicated that the eleven votes there had gone into the Coolidge column, giving him 709 to date, and his headquarters are that Wyoming, Oregon, Montana, Texas, West Virginia, Vermont, North Carolina, Alabama, Nevada, and Porto Rico will be for Coolidge. They are to be heard from this month, and there is a feeling of certainty that their combined total—114—will bring the Coolidge first ballot count up to 1,064.

Think Little of Rivals.

In other words, the Coolidge people refuse to concede that Hiram Johnson can add to the seventeen delegates already counted for him, or that La Follette will have anything more than his twenty-eight Wisconsin delegates.

"If it isn't unanimous, it will be so nearly so that it might as well be unanimous," is the way the situation frequently is put. In the same spirit it is suggested that Senator Johnson may be expected to release his handful of delegates before the convention, or at least before the first roll call.

There is little thought that La Follette will withdraw his name, as it is expected he will leave it before the Republicans as a part of the plan to lay a foundation for his third party movement.

It also is reported that La Follette hopes to pick up a few scattered votes from among the uninstructed delegates, just as a means of proving that sympathy for his cause is not limited to his own home state.

For Unanimous Vote.

"Make it unanimous for Cal." is said to be the slogan that proved most effective in the "constructive" campaign which took Senator Johnson's own state from him, much to his surprise, and it is the idea expressed in those words that is counted upon materially in forecasts that all the states will act up to the President.

There is considerable pride in the California victory, where the battle was won "without a single suggestion of an attack on Senator Johnson."

Includes Party Leaders.

In that state all twenty-nine delegates are elected by the state at large, and the list of the delegation includes such names as those of William H. Crocker, Republican national committeeman; Secretary of State Frank C. Jordan, ex-Gov. George C. Pardee, and Mrs. Florence Collins Porter, who in 1912 was honored with election as the first woman delegate to sit in a Republican national meet.

The next state to get ready for the convention is Wyoming, which will choose nine delegates in convention next Monday. The next primary state is Oregon which next Friday will select eleven Republican delegates. In Alabama, where the primary law was upset by an opinion of the attorney

GILLET AFTER TOGA; MEANS SPEAKERSHIP FOR A WESTERN MAN

Washington, D. C., May 9.—[Special.]—Retirement of Speaker Gillett (Rep., Mass.) from the house, to be a candidate for the senate, which was announced today, opens the way for a western member as speaker in the next congress, if the Republicans should retain control of the lower chamber.

Representative Nicholas Longworth (Rep., O.), who is now majority leader, is in line and doubtless would be accorded the honor. He has distinguished himself as majority leader, his most notable achievement being the compromise between the regular and insurgent Republicans on tax rates.

Representative Madden (Rep., Ill.) stands next to Mr. Longworth in power and importance on the Republican side. The La Follette group of radical Republicans probably would support Representative Cooper (Rep., Wis.).

general of the state last January, will choose its representatives in convention on May 20.

In Montana, where there is to be a primary on May 27, the situation is considered interesting because, while Senator Johnson's name does not appear on the ballot, there are two states of delegates, one fathered by O. H. P. Shelley, present national committeeman, which is favorable to Johnson, and a Coolidge slate sponsored by Dr. O. H. Lanstrum, committeeman-elect, who has been cooperating with the Coolidge forces. It is said that Shelley's fight is more of a personal battle of his own than one for Johnson.

On May 27 also come the West Virginia primary in which nineteen delegates will be chosen, and the Texas convention which will name twenty-two delegates.

Coolidge headquarters in Cleveland will be opened next Thursday at the Cleveland hotel and most of the personnel of the Chicago national headquarters will be transferred there for the period of the meeting, its preliminaries and aftermath. But the Wrigley building offices will remain open until July 1 at least.

Concerning the location of headquarters after that date, it is understood, no definite arrangements have been made. Something may depend on the character of the campaign determined on, but it is generally believed that President Coolidge's suggestion of the election of his primary campaign manager, William M. Butler, Massachusetts, as chairman of the national committee will be adopted and the decision then will be in his hands.

CANADA WEALTH PITTED AGAINST CHICAGO HEALTH

BY DONALD EWING.

Washington, D. C., May 9.—[Special.]—Oscar Larsen, representative in congress from Duluth, Minn., asked a house committee for three minutes today to oppose bills for Chicago water withdrawal, but it was three hours after the fireworks of squabbles, insults, and profanity he started died down.

His testimony was a fan to the spark produced by recent British notes protesting on behalf of Canada against Chicago taking water from Lake Michigan to handle its sewage.

Sparks Begin to Fly.

Mr. Larsen read a protest which he said was from "all Minnesota congressmen," but Representative Michaelson (Rep., Ill.) brought out that it was signed by only two of them.

"Now I want to present some material showing Canada's views," he began, when Michaelson interrupted: "And I suppose you will also give Mexico's—she's our other sister nation, geographically."

Before an answer could come Louis Babin, sanitary district attorney, queried: "I take it, then, you are appearing for the Canadian government and Canadian power interests?"

"That's an insult!" shouted Larsen.

Momentarily Stopped.

"I don't mean it that way, but let it stand," answered Babin. "You say you present the position of a sister nation. I ask why American congressmen should seek to present views of a sister nation in a congressional hearing and why some congressmen are so solicitous as to what Canadian power interests think?"

When Larsen, waving his head and arms, shouted back that "It is a case of sticking to the international treaty—I can't see America break a treaty," Judge George F. Barrett of the sanitary district broke in:

"Do you charge that Congressmen Madden, Rainey, Hull, and the others introducing these bills are seeking to break their country's treaty?"

That stopped Larsen a minute, but he shot back a statement that Chicago's attitude is "Chicago over alles"—that it sought water for personal gain, under a plea of helping to build inland waterways, at the expense of great lakes navigation.

Canada's Finger in U. S. Pie.

"Navigation nothing!" said Representative Hull (Rep., Ill.). "This injury to navigation is just a screen of Canadian power interests who want to make a gigantic grab of the water the middle west wants to open its waterways."

"Why," asked Representative Newton (Rep., Mo.), "do Duluth, Milwaukee, and other cities protest against American withdrawals and not against Canada's? Is it civic jealousy? And, if lake levels are injured so much, this committee should have congress ask the state department to negotiate with Canada to stop her withdrawals—they are greater than ours. Why hasn't that been suggested as an aid to lake navigation?"

"Because it would raise hell with power interests," put in Hull.

"I'll make the demand at the end of this hearing," said Newton. "If the committee concludes levels are badly affected."

William Healey, president of the sanitary district, was the first Chicago witness, outlining the district's plan. He was followed by Judge Barrett, who will continue on the stand tomorrow.

LAWYERS NEAR FISTICUFFS AT COLEMAN TRIAL

Plaintiffs between prosecuting attorneys and counsel for the defense of John Coleman, former policeman, were narrowly averted in Judge Harry Lewis' court at the trial of Coleman for the murder of John S. Degan, wealthy teaming contractor, yesterday.

Trouble, which is said to have been brewing for three days, flared up between Assistant State's Attorney Roy C. Woods and Frank McDonnell, attorney for Coleman. Judge Lewis was forced to send the jury out for recess while he remonstrated with counsel.

The point was reached during the cross-examination of State Representative Lawrence O'Brien, in whose saloon Coleman and Degan were supposed to have met in an encounter a few hours before the policeman fired a fusillade of shots into the latter at Division and Clark streets.

O'Brien, who also has a teaming business, testified that in his knowledge Coleman killed Degan in self-defense following the clash in his saloon.

CHICAGO WOMEN THINK THEY'VE POSTED. THEY MAKE HUSBANDS LEAVE THE TRIBUNE AT HOME EVERY MORNING TO GET THEM POSTED. AND THEIR HUSBANDS GET OTHER TRIBUNES AT THE CORNER STAND.

Superintendent of Schools McAndrew had not yet bowed Chicago Teachers' federation. While he admitted that "guided" by the latest developments in the row with the teachers over meeting of councils during hours, Mr. McAndrew declared "war" is not over, "nor is the armistice."

The fight has developed, according to the superintendent, who referred to the city yesterday, into an issue who is running the school board.

"Is the school system of Chicago run by the board of education, or by the superintendent? It appoints it to be run by the teachers' club or by any other group that so inclined?" asked Mr. McAndrew. "As far as I am concerned, the administration will remain in hands of those elected and appointed for that task."

"If the present rules of the board of education, or if an interpretation of these rules is contradictory to the school law, I shall do all in my power to change these rules or cause them to be changed."

Supt. McAndrew is proceeding with a thirty-two page recommendation for reorganization of the council into operative groups that will take principals, teachers, supervisors, and members. He is holding this recommendation in abeyance until the department has given a complete review of the board rules governing meetings of the council. As are no more council meetings scheduled for October, the superintendent has plenty of time to submit his plans.

Quiet, strictly disciplined, a dull, and emphatically educated rather than personal is a complete picture of the thirty-nine meetings yesterday. In thirty-nine different parts of the city by thirty-nine teachers' councils.

They were called to order promptly at 1:30 p. m. and the roll was taken. Absence from this meeting, which regarded as the equivalent of a session, entails a loss of pay for half day, so there was an almost attendance.

At the Arnold school, where the schools of group 4 had their meeting, Mrs. Nellie Nowlan, the chair, made a reference to the controversy between Supt. McAndrew and Miss Nowlan, when she said: "I am glad to see you all here, and I believe you glad to see me here."

Not All of a Mind.

A filter of understanding appeared down the rows, skipping a row and then a group of teachers later gathered the demonstrators as "disrespectful."

Then on to the business. Back 1922, when Supt. Ella Flagg Young inaugurated the idea of teachers' councils, the board of education ruled the councils might discuss only questions outlined by the superintendent. Through the years, however, stipulation has been sloughed off each group discusses what it wishes.

While many of the meetings yesterday concentrated on the discussion of the proposed junior high school plan, that at the Arnold school followed the regular order of business.

Well, Well, Well!

One of the teachers, a delegate to the general council's meeting, Supt. McAndrew, March 22, reported of that meeting. And the same whispered denunciation of the condemnation.

Several teachers then objected the present custom of principals lining their staff on personality, and other points. Others pointed that these marks were more "sneak" than a liability. For, when the teacher gets into trouble, her given by her principal is often dictation. A vote recommended it seemed unwise to oppose the present system.

WAR ON COUNCIL LOST? M'ANDREW UNAWARE OF IT!

Not Even an Armistice,
He Asserts.

Superintendent of Schools William McAndrew has not yet bowed to the Chicago Teachers' federation, he says. While he admitted that he was "puzzled" by the latest developments in the row with the teachers over the meeting of council during school hours, Mr. McAndrew declared "war is not over," nor is there an armistice.

The fight has developed, according to the superintendent, who returned to the city yesterday, into an issue of who is running the school board.

"Is the school system of Chicago to be run by the board of education and by the superintendent it appoints, or is it to be run by the teachers' union or by any other group that feels so inclined?" asked Mr. McAndrew. "As far as I am concerned, the school administration will remain in the hands of those elected and appointed for that task."

If the present rules of the board of education, or if an interpretation of these rules are contradictory to this principle, I shall do all in my power to change these rules or cause them to be changed.

Supt. McAndrew is proceeding with a thirty-two page recommendation for reorganization of the council into cooperative groups that will take in principals, teachers, supervisors, and board members. He is holding this recommendation in abeyance until the law department has given a complete opinion of the board rules governing the meetings of the council. As there are no more council meetings until October, the superintendent has plenty of time to submit his plans.

39 BODIES MEET

Quiet, strictly disciplined, a trifle dull, and emphatically educational rather than personal is a composite picture of the thirty-nine meetings held yesterday in the thirty-nine different schools throughout the city by the thirty-nine teachers' councils.

They were called to order promptly at 128 p. m. and the roll was taken. Absence from this meeting, which is regarded as the equivalent of a school session, entails a loss of pay for the half day, so there was an almost full attendance.

At the Arnold school, where the nine schools of group 6 had their meeting, Mrs. Nellie Nowlan, the chairman, made a reference to the controversy between Supt. McAndrew and Miss Haley when she said: "I am glad to see you all here, and I believe you are glad to see me here."

Not All of a Mind.
A titter of understanding approval passed down the rows, skipping every now and then a group of teachers who later characterized the demonstration as "disrespectful."

Then on to the business. Back in 1923, when Supt. Ella Flagg Young inaugurated the idea of teachers' councils, the board of education ruled that the councils might discuss only those questions outlined by the superintendent. Through the years, however, this stipulation has been sloughed off and each group discusses what it wishes.

While many of the meetings yesterday concentrated on the discussion of the proposed junior high school plan, that at the Arnold school followed the regular order of business.

Well, Well, Well!

One of the teachers, a delegate to the general council's meeting with Supt. McAndrew March 22, read a report of that meeting. When she recalled that "the meeting was called promptly for 9 a. m., but Mr. McAndrew kept us waiting forty-five minutes and then didn't seem to know much about the work of the council," there was another titter about the room. And the same whispered condemnation of the demonstration.

Several teachers then objected to the present custom of principals grading their staff on personality, ability, and other points. Others pointed out that these marks were more of an asset than a liability. For, when the teacher gets into trouble, her record given by her principal is often a vindication. A vote recommended that it seemed unwise to oppose the present system.

Bell Calls Time.

Then the group took up the consideration of junior high schools. Long, bright days discussed but four paragraphs of the report when the 2:15 p. m. bell rang. Mrs. Nowlan had informed them that technically the meeting was over, but that they might stay on if they chose.

Mrs. Allis, however, admitted giving testimony in a previous hearing under discovery statutes that she allowed Gilbert Allis, her divorced husband, to believe before their marriage in 1909 that Collette and Leone Morgan (Logan), mentioned in the case, were her sisters, whereas the fact was they were her daughters by a former marriage to John H. Logan in New York in 1897.

This fact, Mrs. Allis testified, made no difference in their relations when Allis was informed of the facts. Mrs. Allis is a former actress, and the mother of four children, two by her first and two by her subsequent marriage.

CAPTAIN FLOUTS GUNMAN'S 'RIGHT' TO CARRY ARMS

Holds Justice's Permit Invalid.

Clerks justices of the peace may go on forever issuing permits to Chicago gunmen to carry revolvers, but there is one man in Chicago who doesn't believe they're worth the paper they're written on.

That man is Capt. William Shoen, maker of the detective bureau. He is going to consult with State's Attorney Crowe today before returning either the permit or the gun to an armed ex-convict haled last night before the night court.

Did Time for Murder.

The ex-convict, Sanford "Clump" Rosenbaum, who did time at Joliet for murder and operating a confidence game, was arrested Tuesday night at Madison and Clark streets by Sergt. William Cox. With Rosenbaum were Irving Fisher and Charles Volante. They also were arrested.

Rosenbaum, one of the many suspects taken at the time of the "Jack" Duffy murder, was carrying a bright, shiny new gun of a type being sold by the thousands through the mails by the thousands in Louisville and other cities. The gun was just as it had come through the mails, with the exception that Rosenbaum had taken the precaution to file off every number and had inserted five cartridges.

Then He Flashes Permit.

Rosenbaum said nothing about the permit until brought before Judge Lawrence Jacobs in the night court last night. Then he produced the paper issued by Justice Emil Fischer of Cicero.

Two witnesses had signed their names, attesting that the bear was "known to be of good moral character." Judge Jacobs said he could do nothing but discharge all three, but told Sergt. Cox to take the gun back to the detective bureau.

Rosenbaum, accompanied by two runners for bondsmen, appeared at the bureau shortly afterwards to get the gun. He was ushered into Shoen's office. He said he had a permit.

"Let's see it," said the captain.

Rosenbaum handed it over.

Landlords Have Trying Day with Renters in Court

"Standing pat" is contagious. Thousands of tenants are trying it now when the landlord raises the rent or says "move."

And two hundred of them were brought into renters' court under Judge Samuel H. Trude yesterday by angry landlords who were suing for vacation, unpaid rent, and contract violations.

And then the renter had his inning; for under the tenant's emergency legislation, retroactive till July, 1923, the judge can grant the tenant a stay of from ten days to six months after the term of the lease expires, and can also fix a reasonable rent for that period.

Some Families Desperate.

Historical women poured forth stories of long vain searches for $50 flats—the most popular brand; and men, desperate under the added burden of increased rent, grimly and pleadingly asked the judge for lowered rates.

Testimony showed that the rents had increased in practically every section except in the neighborhood of Rogers Park and south of Jackson park. In the higher priced apartments the increase was from 25 to 50 per cent; in the cheaper sections from 50 to 200 per cent, reaching its peak in the colored districts at 50 to 300 per cent.

Put Into Street.

One woman told of a landlord who moved her belongings into the street by force.

Mrs. Thomas Carlson, 3044 North California avenue, stated that at last she had found a flat for $55 a month—but the landlord demanded $2.50 a month extra for each child. And she had four.

The landlords gave taxes and increased cost of janitor service as reasons for raising the rent.

But Judge Trude "found" chiefly for the renters. In practically every instance—provided they were willing to pay promptly the existing rent—they were granted an extension ranging from ten days to two months.

The peak of the number of cases is expected to be reached next week.

These Parents Forgive.

Following the double elopement last January a year ago, Dr. and Mrs. Herbert L. Wheeler forgave their daughter, but Mrs. Walsh summoned her daughter and before the month was over, filed action for an annulment.

During the court action William Travers Jerome appeared as guardian ad litem for Mrs. Tyndale. This first marriage was annulled in January of this year, which became final in April.

Mr. Warner is the son of Grove E. Warner, vice president of the Warner Sugar Refining company and treasurer of the Warner-Quinn Asphalt company of Maine. The Warner fortune is said to be one of the largest in this country.

NET TIGHTENS ABOUT WHEELER AND HE SQUIRMS!

Official Tells Evidence to Be Used in Trial.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Washington, D. C., May 9.—(Special.)—Disclosure of the evidence which the department of justice will present at the trial in Montana of Senator Burton K. Wheeler resulted today in an unhappy hour for the Democratic "prosecutor" of the Brookhart committee, and brought two new figures into the Montana oil scandal.

It seemed to suit Booth. Mr. Booth, who had just left the interior department to go as a special assistant to the attorney general in Montana, was not at all surprised when he was asked to accept this offer. Mr. Goodwin apparently never knew anything about it, and said today that it all came as a complete surprise.

Mr. Booth has resigned from the department of justice. He left there "during the last week," it was admitted today by Assistant Attorney General John E. Pratt, who dug up the Wheeler evidence in which the Booth letters came as an incidental matter. Senator Wheeler's case took a turn today that caused him to pick up the committee to permit him to go on the witness stand and explain the letters and telegrams read by Mr. Pratt.

New Role for Prosecutor. Senator Sterling (Rep., R. O.) objected to this, but Senator William E. Borah, the chairman, gave him a chance to tell part of his story before adjournment until Monday. Senator Wheeler, in the role of badgered witness was a sight new to Washington.

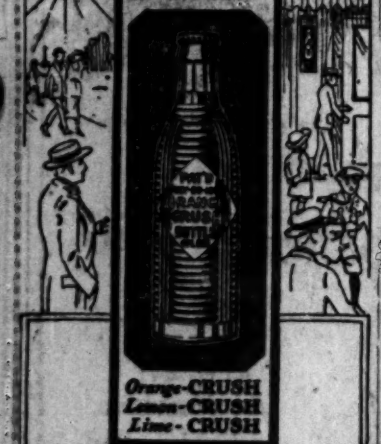

He entered general and specific denial to all charges that he had ever accepted a cent for appearing before the interior department in behalf of the Campbell permits. He struggled hard to break the net of circumstances which seems to be thrown around him. Had he been prosecuting himself he would have been in a much worse light.

The most sensational development was the Booth-Campbell correspondence. Mr. Booth, an old friend of Wheeler, who had stepped close to the edge of official propriety in advising Campbell in detail in regard to his pending oil claims, left the interior department on April 15, 1923. He went into the department of justice on May 1, 1923.

Campbell Wins Friend. On May 4, 1923, Campbell wired Booth in regard to a claim known as the Phil McGowan permit. It appears that this permit was assigned by Campbell before it had ever been granted by the government. Campbell informed Booth that they wanted to go ahead and protect this property with an offset well and asking him if the interior department would insure protection for the new well.

On the same day Campbell wrote a letter to Booth confirming the telegram and adding: "I beg to ask if anything further has been done and if you can hurry matters along either one way or the other and get us title. A well has come in on the northeast corner offsetting this acreage. It will be necessary for someone to act at once protecting the offset of this well."

"My idea would be after this was obtained to assign you and Mr. Goodwin."

The Guide-Post to a Delicious Drink

Whenever you see that Orange-Crush sign—stop—enter—get a real Orange-Crush.

Here are six reasons: (1) The natural fruit oil of oranges—which gives that distinctive and delightful aroma. (2) The natural acid of citrus fruits (oranges, lemons and limes)—which gives the tang. (3) Orange juice—which everybody likes. (4) Filtered carbonated water—which gives "zip," sparkle, purity. (5) U. S. Certified food color—which makes it as appealing to the eye as to the taste. (6) Pure cane sugar.

That's all, My, what a drink!

Burns, Like Daugherty and Denby, Closes Official Career

Washington, D. C., May 9.—Another figure long under attack in senate investigations passed from the public stage today in the resignation of William J. Burns as chief of the bureau of investigation of the department of justice.

A center of criticism leveled at the department since the resignation of Harry M. Daugherty as attorney general, Mr. Burns' retirement was generally regarded as certain to follow that of his former chief, although Attorney General Stone said on assuming office that he had invited all of his assistants and department heads to remain at least until he acquainted himself with his duties.

It's Accepted at Once. Mr. Burns submitted his resignation today, and it was accepted effective immediately. Mr. Stone has no one in mind to succeed Mr. Burns at present and may not decide for a week. In the meantime, the bureau will be under the direction of J. Edward Hoover, assistant director.

Mr. Burns declared he was leaving after having built up the bureau to a point where it is functioning with more efficiency than ever in its history. He asserted he had accomplished a reorganization of the bureau which should easily be maintained as the greatest crime detecting and crime preventing agency in the world.

Laughs at Laughters. The suggestion that Mr. Burns was quitting because of criticisms directed at him when Attorney General Daugherty was under fire were laughed away by the chief, who said he had twice asked Mr. Daugherty to relieve him and each time was requested to remain.

His retirement now, he added, merely indicated that he had completed several important investigations he had had under way and he felt that the condition of his health and his desire to quit public office were sufficient grounds upon which he might ask to be relieved. He has been in federal service almost a quarter of a forty years out of this lease. This is valuable ground and possibly the best held section in the Kevin field, as the big wells that have come in since my return are only half a mile away and this offset well is good and is a big well; they are drilling deeper in the Ellis sand, which will mean possibly 1,000 or 1,500 barrel well—so you can see how important it is that we get our hooks on this half section to which we thoroughly believe we are entitled. The forty acres would make you and Mr. Goodwin more money than you would otherwise make in some time. We will appreciate every much if this arrangement is satisfactory. We are all set to move in a rig and start a well immediately after we get the permit and guarantee from the interior department to protect this permit and offset well. This is strictly confidential. If a company was formed in Spokane on this land or part of it, it would be a well-kept secret for an interest in the company, we can arrange that also."

Following is a letter from Booth to Campbell, May 18, 1923, written on department of justice stationery from Washington, D. C.: "Your letter of May 4 reached me after being forwarded at Little Rock, Ark., where I had gone. I had answered most of your letters before leaving Washington. Mr. Goodwin expected back in the course of a day or two and I will on Monday find out relative to Rhea assignment. I was trying to get the approval of the original assignment so that we could later take the matter up. I note what you say about Assistant Secretary Goodwin. I will take this matter up to him on Monday and will then write you in detail in relation to everything. Assuring you that I am more than pleased to be able to aid you, etc."

Mr. Booth is said to be in Oklahoma. Mr. Goodwin made this statement: "During the month of May, 1923, I was in the northwest, spending most of the time in Spokane, in connection with the investigation of the proposed Columbia basin reclamation project. The letter from Gordon Campbell of Montana addressed to E. H. Booth, former solicitor of the interior department, dated May 4, 1923, was called to my attention for the first time yesterday."

"No offer of any nature has ever been made to me directly or indirectly in connection with these, or any other, permits, by Mr. Campbell, Mr. Booth, or any one else."

Wheeler Takes Pen In Hand. The most damaging evidence against Wheeler today was a letter written on United States senate stationery, March 4, 1923, four days after he had taken office, to Campbell, as follows: "I wish you would have your office send me a detailed report of the condition of your permit that we discussed yesterday when I was in your office. I wish that when I take it up with the department of the interior I will be able to intelligently discuss the matter. I have been extremely busy since arriving here, trying to get located and have an appointment this afternoon with some people from California who have signed a desire to hear what I have to say with reference to your holdings and Kevin."

On March 14, 1923, Campbell wired Wheeler, who was about to sail for Europe and Moscow: "Please advise when you expect to return. Believe me, Mr. Lincoln, I am in a very important position. It is possible you can discuss matter with solicitor (Booth) and I can come to Washington and discuss matter with him with view to satisfactory settlement even during your absence. Feel this permit should have prompt attention."

Many other letters and telegrams were read. Senator Wheeler kept Campbell's interest in mind, even though he did not get any more than the original $4,000 from him. In one letter Campbell refused to pay the $10,000 agreed upon.

With Elmer Coan, H. G. Glesner, and W. W. Rhea sitting in a row behind him and the lean, hard, gray face of Senator Sterling bending menacingly toward him, Senator Wheeler began his defense of the permit.

He said he was 42 years old and was born in Massachusetts. He comes from the same New England stock that produced President Coolidge. Far back on the family tree of both men there is found a common strain of blood. The young senator with his reddish hair and high forehead and long nose does not look like the President. But both are young and reckless, and his blue eyes have a different light.

He was voluble, repeating himself, denying over and over not only the technical guilt but the sense or intent of guilt in this matter.

Joseph Grimsby Curious. State your employment by Gordon Campbell, its terms and scope and relationship as it bears on the question of the charge against you," said Senator Borah grimly.

"I never knew Campbell until January of 1923," Wheeler said. "Mrs. Wheeler and I were attending a wedding in Kalispell when a phone call came from Great Falls. Campbell wanted me to stop there on my way home to Butte. I did not do this. Then Tom Stout, former congressman, came to see me about my taking up-the case. I did not want any new cases that would call for my personal attention, but I finally told him that I would take this on the distinct understanding that my partner, Mr. Baldwin, would attend to it and I would come to Montana only in an important matter."

"I told him I would not touch it for less than $10,000. I refused to go to Great Falls until I had a check for $2,000 from Campbell. Then I went over to the trial. The Campbell properties were considered very valuable. I would say that $10,000 was not an extravagant figure. We filed a motion and a brief and finally won the case."

"Explains" Secret Meeting. "Campbell had other suits. L. C. Stevenson, his former partner, was at the time. It was common gossip that he represented the Standard Oil. He wanted to serve Campbell with a subpoena and Campbell was avoiding service. This explains the secret meeting at the Rainbow hotel.

"We did not want him served, that was all. I never handled any permit matters and never knew anything about them. It is untrue that I said at that meeting that everything would be straightened up when I got to Washington."

"Did Campbell say they could afford to pay you a gold sum if this McGowan permit went through?" asked Senator Sterling.

"Listen, senator, I never knew Rhea had a permit. Never at any time did I have one blessed thing to do with permits. I was never paid on any occasion one solitary cent for any business in Washington about permits. The contract of employment referred specifically to litigation in Montana."

GIRL'S LEAP TO DEATH AT HOTEL BRINGS MYSTERY Police last night were endeavoring to clear the mystery surrounding the death leap of a young woman at the Mary Daves hotel, 317 South Throop street, at the same time that a fire was discovered in the room she had been occupying. The young woman, Miss Edith Perkins of Spencer, Ia., was seen by witnesses to raise the window of her second story room, glance despairingly about, and then plunge head first to the pavement.

Guests of the hotel, which is operated exclusively for women, were a moment later alarmed upon discovery of smoke and flames issuing from Miss Perkins' room. Firemen found the door locked and the furniture and woodwork of the room ablaze. It was impossible to discover, police declared, if Miss Perkins, who had recently been ill, determined to take her own life and had set the fire to conceal her act. At the county morgue it was found that Miss Perkins had strapped around her body $600 in currency and a railroad ticket to Spencer. The young woman was formerly a hair dresser in a loop establishment and had announced her intention of returning to Iowa.

DENBY INSISTS HIS OIL ACTION WAS JUSTIFIED If Shot for It He'd Do Again, He Says.

Edwin Denby, Michigan, 94, night told men of the University of Michigan that they need harbor worries regarding his conduct as secretary of the United States. Given the opportunity of reliving those months as master of our forces, he would act no differently, would undo nothing that he has done, whereupon the Hotel La recounted with the applause of a large alumni.

"If I was informed that I again take up the job of secretary of the navy and that if I repeated actions in the oil matter I would be shot—why I would say bring on firing squad," he shouted.

A famous Michigan half-jumped to a chair and led the "yell" of the Ann Arbor crowd. The cheer was heard through the tire heels.

Says He Obeyed Congress. "No man in my position would do otherwise than I did," Mr. Denby said. "No man could have done otherwise. Any man who has a patriotic feeling, seeing the oil of the being drained away, would have tried to obey the voice of the people as expressed by Congress. I did. Congress charged me with the duty to conserve, not waste. A navy must have an exchange that oil. That was my duty."

"I was forced to use my own judgment. There is no set of requirements that forces a secretary of the navy to keep oil in the ground. Congress could not have meant that the oil should be kept in the ground. My purpose was to use the oil conservatively. A navy must have an exchange that oil. That was my duty."

For Strong Navy. "The navy is the greatest instrument in our system of government," said Mr. Denby. "A strong navy is equal to any of the world, does to make peace than any other factor. I am in favor of the three ply rule. I know that we should have more craft and more aircraft carriers. I know that the aircraft will be superseded by the battleship."

William McAndrew, superintendent of Chicago schools, was toastmaster. With Mr. Denby on the program, Coach Fielding "Hurry Up" Yost, Elbert Labell, noted athlete.

Officers of the association for coming year are: Hiram S. Body, president; H. W. Blackwell, vice president; Ralph Snyder, vice president; Kearns, secretary and treasurer; Herman Gerlach, assistant secretary; treasurer, and William D. McKee, C. C. De Wolf, Robert Cutting, E. J. Fauntleroy, Edward E. Mack, J. Gaines, and Thomas S. Hammond, rectors.

WOMEN LAUNCH CAMPAIGN A place where the young woman goes to the University of Michigan to meet friends, gain social life and match her ideas and ideals with those of other women, is the need of the Ann Arbor university according to its dean of women, Hamilton.

"Our women are not getting along on their own, and they are not coming into the world of the spirit of the age so well as the men," she said. "A firm navy, a strong navy, is equal to any of the world, does to make peace than any other factor. I am in favor of the three ply rule. I know that we should have more craft and more aircraft carriers. I know that the aircraft will be superseded by the battleship."

Edwin Denby, Michigan, '96, last night told men of the University of Michigan that they need harbor no worries regarding his conduct while secretary of the United States navy. Given the opportunity of reliving those months as master of our naval forces, he would act no differently, would undo nothing that he has done, he said, whereupon the Hotel La Salle resounded with the applause of Michigan alumni.

"If I was informed that I could again take up the job of secretary of the navy and that if I repeated my actions in the oil matter I would be shot—why I would say bring on your firing squad," he shouted.

A famous Michigan half back jumped to a chair and led the "back um" yell of the Ann Arbor campus. The cheer was heard through the entire hotel.

Says He Obeyed Congress.
"No man in my position would have done otherwise than I did," Mr. Denby said. "No man could have done otherwise. Any man who has a spark of patriotism, seeing the oil of the navy being drained away and lost forever, would have tried to obey the voice of the people as expressed by congress, just as I did. Congress charged the head of the navy to conserve, sell, or exchange that oil. That was what I did."

"I was forced to use my own judgment. There is no set of requirements that forces a secretary of the navy to keep oil in the ground. Congress could not have meant that the oil should be kept in the ground. My only purpose was to see the oil conserved—not wasted. A navy must have fuel."

The former secretary then discussed our present marine soldiery.

For Strong Navy.
"The navy is the greatest instrument in our system of government," he said. "A firm navy, a strong navy, equal to any of the world, does more to make peace than any other factor. I am in favor of the navy. I know that we should have more aircraft and more aircraft carriers, but I insist that the aircraft will never supersede the battleship."

William McAndrew, superintendent of Chicago schools, was toastmaster. With Mr. Denby on the program were Coach Fielding "Hurricane" Yost and Robert La Follette, noted athlete. Officers of the association for the coming year are: Hiram Cody, president; H. W. Blakelee, vice president; Ralph Snyder, vice president; J. C. WOMEN LAUNCH CAMPAIGN

A place where the young woman who goes to the University of Michigan may meet friends, gain social poise, and match her ideas and ideals with those of other women, is the greatest need of the Ann Arbor university, according to its dean of women, Jean Hamilton.

"Our women are not getting all that our men are, and they are not carrying into the world the spirit of Michigan so well as the men," she said to two hundred Michigan alumnae who were holding a campaign dinner at the Hotel La Salle, coincident with the Alumni banquet, last night.

MacChesney a Speaker.
Nathan W. MacChesney, president of the Northwestern Alumni, spoke on the value of co-educational institutions in fixing moral standards, and deplored the fact that Ann Arbor young women had to meet youths on the corner, in drug stores, or in car rides, because there was no place where they could receive them properly as guests.

Today opens a twenty day campaign throughout the country to raise $1,000,000 for a building which will serve as a center for all the activities of the university's women students. There are 3,500 women, housed in 150 different places, now attending college in Ann Arbor.

"Give or get $207" is the slogan for each of the 6,500 Michigan alumnae in the United States. She can take it from her personal allowance, she can beg it from husband or father, she can "sell" the idea to various friends, or she can earn it. The deadline for pledges is commencement day, but the payments may extend over a period of three years.

The 450 Chicago members, divided into teams, will start on a canvass this morning, and they are not going to confine their attention to the alumnae. They are going after the alumni also. They want a building comparable to the Michigan Union, which is for men.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 9.—(By the Associated Press.)—President Coolidge attained a majority of 262,639 votes over Senator Hiram Johnson in Indiana's primary election last Tuesday, according to complete but unofficial figures today. Tabulation of the vote in all 3,409 precincts gave Coolidge 224,777, Johnson 62,148.

BOOTLEG UNION MAKES PROTEST UPON BEER BILL

Washington, D. C., May 9.—Word reached congress today that the bootleggers' union, meeting in solemn convention May 1 at New York, unanimously adopted resolutions protesting against modification of the Volstead act to legalize 2.75 per cent beer.

A petition forwarded to Representative Griffin (Dem., N. Y.), said delegates from locals along the Atlantic coast attended the meeting and were convinced that "various ill-advised and misguided informers have initiated a vicious propaganda to break down the drastic and wholesome provisions of the Volstead act."

Declaring that the object of bills to legalize beer have the "avowed object of encouraging the consumption of so-called lighter drinks to the detriment of whiskey and other alcoholic beverages," the petition said that enactment of such legislation would "undermine and perhaps utterly destroy an important industry."

It has been the settled policy of the government to encourage and protect infant industries, the petition said, adding that the bootlegging industry has shown sufficient evidence of vitality to fall within this category.

WITNESSES OF LEEVE SLAYING MUM ON KILLER

Fear of 'Al' Brown Seals
Lips of Onlookers.

So lowly was Joseph Howard, the Capone, and so powerful is Alphonse Capone, alias Al Brown, the living man, that none who saw six bullets fired into Howard's head would say yesterday that Capone-Brown is the murderer. Chief of Detectives Michael Hughes declared there is no doubt of this, but is not sanguine about being able to prove it.

Two of the witnesses trembled when asked if Al Brown (the Mr. Hyde part of Capone's name) was not the slayer of Howard. They didn't know him, they vowed. Three others were present when Howard was eliminated from that strait jacket society in which he belonged but which disowned him. They, like Brown, were where the police could neither find nor question them.

Furniture and Vice.
Out in the neighborhood where the name Alphonse Capone, Furniture, appeared on a window and the name Al Brown, owner of the dive called "The Four Deuces," 2222 Wabash avenue, and where the killing took place Thursday night at 2300 Wabash avenue, they were saying:

"I'll bet 50 cents Al Brown didn't kill him, and I'll bet $50 they never convict him of the murder."

That was the consensus when the inquest over Howard's body was begun in the undertaking parlors at 2456 Wentworth avenue. The same spirit was manifest at the various police headquarters, but the rules were preserved to the extent that the inquest was continued until May 22 to allow the police time to investigate.

"Here's what we are up against," Chief Hughes said. "Jacobs, the owner of the saloon where the shooting took place, has been in business in that neighborhood for several years. So has Brown. Jacobs saw the shooting, saw the shooter, yet he says he doesn't know who the men involved were."

SURFACE LINES BUY 100 NEW TROLLEY CARS

One hundred new street cars, costing $1,000,000, are to be added to the equipment of the Chicago Surface Lines as the result of contracts awarded yesterday. Half of the cars will be constructed in the company's west side shops, and the others will be built by the Lightweight Noiseless Electric Street Car company of Minneapolis.

The first of the cars will be delivered by Aug. 15, and all of them will be in service by Oct. 15, G. A. Richardson, vice president of the surface lines, said. The cars are the new type, lightweight equipment designed for operation either singly or in trains. They are similar to those recently installed on the Broadway line.

The addition of these cars will make a total of 344 new cars installed since the first of last year. Service on the lines was increased 6,000,000 car miles last year, and the purchase of new equipment this year means a further marked increase.

who lives at 2220 Wabash avenue, was also a witness but of no value as he claims not to know Brown. He said he heard some one say "Hello" to the man who did the killing, but he is sure he couldn't identify "Al" if he brought him face to face with him.

Three Men Are Missing.
The three men who were standing with Howard at the time are missing. "I am sure it was Capone and I know just what happened. Howard and the other three were standing at the cigar counter talking. In came Al Brown and another man. One reached over and took hold of Howard's coat, drawing Howard toward him. Then he put a gun against Howard's chest and pulled the trigger. Five more bullets followed the first one, all effective."

"That's what happened, but for the life of me I can't tell the motive. Howard was a bad lot. Tony ("Mouth") Bagnolio, one of the missing witnesses, is a bad lot. He used to be a slinger for the bartenders' union. He was about to shoot a saloon-keeper one time and a customer intervened and was killed by Bagnolio. I trailed him to northern Wisconsin and arrested him. He beat the case, however."

"He won't talk. He doesn't dare. The same will probably apply to George Billore and Clifford Eaton. It's an old story, already."

DAUGHTER-IN-LAW DENIES CHARGES OF Z. G. DUNN

With her mother and sister, many of her former girl friends, her husband, his father and the latter's five lawyers arrayed against her, Dorothy Dunn drew herself up proudly yesterday afternoon and denied, one by one, every slur made on her character.

Her denials were addressed to a jury of men she asks to award her $100,000 from Zephania G. Dunn, who destroyed, she says, the love for her husband and his son, Calvert Z. Dunn.

Charge Her with Crimes.
Crime after crime was laid at her door—shop lifting and embezzlement, indiscreet conduct with men and worse conduct on the streets of New York City—all told by women who once had called her "friend," and by Dunn's detectives.

And after she made her denials, made hasty by curt admonitions by Circuit Judge Philip L. Sullivan to "hurry it along," it was announced that an adjournment would be taken until Monday.

One of the women who came from Denver testified she once had found Dorothy, unclad, in a house with her former husband, Samuel Tilden. It was after he had married Dunn, said the witness, Mrs. Claire Malory.

Detective Tells Tale.
Depositions obtained in New York in Zephania Dunn's behalf, in which a detective swore he had solicited a favor of Mrs. Dunn for $5, were branded by her as a frame-up. And when shown she had pleaded guilty to the serious charge in a New York night court Mrs. Dunn said she had done so because she had been told she would get off lightly if she pleaded guilty.

The jurors will be given the case Monday, it is expected.

COOLIDGE WASN'T LET IN ON LODGE PLAN FOR COURT

But He Thinks Senator Worth Listening To.

Washington, D. C., May 9.—[Special.]—President Coolidge, according to authoritative information obtained at the White House today, has neither approved nor disapproved Senator Lodge's proposal to detach the world court from the league of nations and reconstitute it under auspices of the Senate, which would court the United States then would join.

The President, it was stated, was not directly consulted by Mr. Lodge on the matter. The senator told Mr. Coolidge some time ago that he contemplated submission of a new world court plan, but did not consult the executive on its provisions. Mr. Coolidge is of the opinion that any proposal by Senator Lodge, in view of his long experience in international affairs, is worthy of the most careful consideration.

Coolidge for Harding Plan.
The position of the President, it was reiterated, was set forth in his message to Congress last December in his recent speech at New York. The position is interpreted as endorsement of the Harding proposal that the United States join the present world court. Mr. Coolidge is interested in an international conference for further discussion and for codification of international law. He assumed that it would be necessary to hold separate conferences to deal with these matters.

Arms Parley Depends on Europe.
The disarmament conference, the President thinks, could not be held during the coming summer. The country will be engaged in a political campaign for one thing. Then it is too early to say whether the disarmament conference he proposes is feasible. He pronounced it contingent on the European powers' signing the Dawes reparations settlement.

The recent election in Germany indicates the Dawes plan will be accepted by that nation, but whether France will accept it is uncertain. Not until the French elections are held will it be possible to gauge the attitude of France, and if that attitude should prove favorable it would take some time to realize the settlement, regarding by Mr. Coolidge as a condition to the calling of the disarmament conference.

WELCOMED BY BRITAIN
[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
LONDON, May 9.—The foreign office welcomes Senator Lodge's resolution for the withdrawal of the United States from the league of nations, which would be set in motion if the full details are considered.

British official opinion is strongly averse to any attempt on the part of the United States to create a system under which it could cooperate with Europe. It is firmly believed that such cooperation is necessary for the well being of the world. The prime minister would personally prefer that this system be the league of nations, but it is realized how difficult it would be to obtain America's adherence to the league.

France Is Skeptical.
[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
PARIS, May 9.—On the eve of the elections French political and diplomatic authorities are too busy in the final scramble for votes to pay much attention to the Lodge world court plan.

Some leading men said the senator's proposal is premature, and the carrying out of the project in the near future would force certain distasteful issues, which had better be left dormant until a while.

THE COLUMBUSES OF THE AIR

The American planes have left Attu Island for Alaska, 530 miles away. Search for Maj. Morris goes on, but no trace of him has been found. Lieut. Pelletier Doley, the French flyer, was forced to land at Rangoon on the way from Calcutta to Bangkok. The Portuguese plane is wrecked at Jodhpur, India. A new plane, however, may be sent from Portugal. The British plane is also expected near Jodhpur.

Society, Military, and Cops Foregather at Horse Show

Society and military leaders flocked to the International amphitheater at 43d and Halsted streets last night for the opening of the two-day horse show and military tournament being staged by the Sixty-fifth Cavalry Division association.

While the 132d infantry band filled the big hall with melody several hundred high class horses did their stuff in competition for plaudits and prizes. The exhibition varied from dignified horses, who posed prettily while the judges considered their fine points, to cavalry, artillery and police mounts, which raced about the savant in fancy maneuvers accompanied by the rattling of caissons and sabers.

Troop A of the 14th U. S. cavalry, its equipment shining despite the two days' travel through the rain from Fort Sheridan, gave an exhibition of Cossack riding. Two batteries from the 14th U. S. field artillery jashed about the hall in competitive maneuvers with national guard batteries from the 122d and 124th field artillery. Later a company of mounted policemen demonstrated to a delighted gallery their skill in riding, and with blowing traffic signals, taking numbers of parked automobiles, and bawling out a misguided motorist. BEULAH WANTS NO DELAY OF MURDER TRIAL

Mrs. Beulah Annan, the pretty 23-year old slayer of Harry Kollstedt, wants no postponement of her trial on account of her approaching motherhood, she said yesterday afternoon. Neither does the office of the state's attorney.

"We are ready to go to trial today," declared Assistant State's Attorney Roy C. Woods and William F. McLaughlin, "and have been ready since the day following the murder, and will be whenever the attorneys for the defense are ready."

The case will come up before Judge Lindsay Monday, and if Mrs. Annan's attorney is prepared there is no reason why we should not go to trial at once."

Argentine Troops Kill 4 Strikers Against Pension

BUENOS AIRES, May 9.—Four men were shot dead by troops today at Tucuman, where the general strike against the old age pension law is still continuing. Workers in several cities have not obeyed orders to call off the strike. A police sergeant was killed in strike riots at Bahia Blanca, and disorders also occurred at Mendoza.

Fifteen hundred manufacturers and merchants, assembled tonight under the auspices of the Argentine Industrial union, resolved to disobey the new pension law. They decided that they would neither pay their own contributions to the pension fund nor collect from employees contributions, as called for under the terms of the law.

U. S. FLYERS HOP FOR ATTU ISLAND ON WORLD GIRDLE

Begin 530 Mile Flight to Aleutians.

Bremerton, Wash., May 9.—[By the Associated Press.]—Three United States army planes flying around the earth left Attu Island at 10:10 this morning for Attu Island, 530 miles to the southwestward, according to a radio dispatch received at the Puget Sound navy yard here.

The flight is expected to take between seven and eleven hours. The aviators anticipated encountering headwinds the entire distance, as the prevailing winds are from the west. Meanwhile, no word was received here today concerning Maj. Frederick L. Martin, missing commander of the expedition, although the Puget Sound station was in communication with the navy radio station at Cordova, Alaska, which is in daily touch with all the North Pacific ocean, and which reaches to Asia via a station on St. Paul Island, in the Bering sea.

And Then to a Jap Island.
Attu Island, the next stop of the fliers, is the westernmost island of the Aleutians, and is one of the five groups of the Aleutians, called the Near Islands. From Attu the fliers will jump to Paramushiro Island, Japan, 715 miles away.

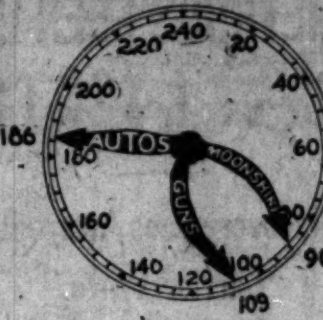

The hop-off from Attu Island ended a period of complete relaxation in which the three pilots, Lieuts. Lowell H. Smith, acting commander, Erik Nelson, and Leigh Wade, and their mechanics, had indulged since their arrival.

The sheltered bays and low lying hills of the island had proved a playground for the six men remaining of the eight who left Santa Monica, Cal., on March 17 to encircle the earth on four airplanes. The airman made their headquarters in the village of Nazan, at the southeastern corner of the island, a settlement consisting of mud hut dwellings.

Frenchman Reaches Bangkok.
[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
PARIS, May 9.—Lieut. Pelletier Doley today notified the French air ministry that he had safely reached Bangkok, Burma, this afternoon at 1 o'clock, but had decided not to continue to Bangkok, Siam, today because of the intense heat, which blistered the wings of his airplane and made the pilot and his mechanic, Lucien Besin, suffer terribly. Lieut. Doley hopes to continue his flight toward Tokyo tomorrow morning.

MACDONALD TO MEET POINCARE ON DAWES PLAN

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
PARIS, May 9.—Premier Poincaré tonight accepted Prime Minister MacDonald's invitation to hold "informal conversations" at the latter's country home, Chequers court, on May 28. Premier Poincaré's reply says he will leave Paris for London on the morning of May 20, spending the night and most of next day at Chequers discussing the outstanding problems of the two countries. The results of the recent German elections and the execution of the Dawes reparations experts' plan will be the principal subjects for discussion. The Tribune is informed.

Parley Way for Allied Parley.
LONDON, May 9.—[By the Associated Press.]—Prime Minister MacDonald wants to meet Premier Poincaré as soon as the French election is out of the way to discuss plans for making the Dawes reparations proposal effective. Mr. MacDonald believes that a conversation with the French minister, such as he had last week-end with M. Theunis of Belgium, is necessary before a full allied conference can be held. It is believed here that Brussels will probably be selected for this allied conference.

Urges Dawes Plan Referendum.
[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
BERLIN, May 9.—The Nationalist group was hard hit by a majority Socialist official proposal today to leave the acceptance or rejection of the Dawes reparations experts' plan to a popular referendum. The Nationalists, who oppose acceptance of the plan, have been arranging a coalition of all the reactionary parties for the purpose of defeating the acceptance of the plan in the new reichstag.

FOR EVANS AND THE FACTS.

Chicago, May 9.—As an occasional advertiser in your newspaper, it occurs to me to comment on the articles now running by Mr. Arthur Evans covering the Gary-Haugen bill.

My opinion is this is real newspaper writing because it gives the man who is to know, real facts. We have been hearing Mr. Evans' special articles for some time and we are well aware that it has been a fixed habit with him to write from a standpoint of facts obtained from a hand.

I sincerely wish that the public taste such that articles like those of Mr. Evans could be featured on the front page and leading murders be run on page 12.

WOMEN DENIED EQUALITY WITH MEN IN PULPIT

Methodists Bar Them from Conferences.

BY THE REV. W. B. NORTON.

Springfield, Mass., May 9.—[Special.]—At the Methodist general conference today women were given the right of ordination by which they are allowed to preach, baptize, administer the holy communion, perform the marriage ceremony and become pastors of churches, but were denied the right of "full ministerial powers." This bars them from membership in the annual conferences. The Rev. Ray Allen, Rochester, N. Y., who offered the resolution providing that "women be granted the same ministerial rights as men," presented a long list of signers. Among the number were Dr. John Thompson, pastor of Chicago Temple; Dr. A. W. Harris, former president of Northwestern university; Dr. Charles E. Guthrie, Chicago, head of the Epworth league; and Dr. George Elliott, New York city, editor of the Methodist Review.

"Question Only of Fitness." "It is not a question of blue eyes or black hair, but of fitness," said Dr. Allen. "There are two women in the conference who are not fit to be ordained. They are not fit to be pastors. They are not fit to be ministers. They are not fit to be members of the conference. They are not fit to be anything." The Rev. J. M. Gray, Scotland, Pa.; the Rev. E. J. Lockwood, Watertown, N. Y.; the Rev. W. E. Shaw, Watertown, N. Y.; the Rev. George H. McCune, Kankakee, Ill.; and Mrs. Mary Martin Northrup offered full ministerial rights to the women.

The two chief arguments of the "anti" were that the time is not yet ripe, and that there is danger that admitting women to full membership in the annual conferences would jeopardize unification with the church south.

Congratulations from Daniels. Congratulations concerning the confirmation of the constitution to day from former Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Daniels, secretary to President Coolidge, and many other members of the Methodist Episcopal church, South.

Mr. Daniels, a member of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, wrote: "The action of your conference on unification with the church South is heartening and encouraging. I have also sent a telegram to the bishops in Nashville expressing the earnest hope that they would promptly join the Northern brethren in a unified Methodist. I have visited all parts of the country and find that the overwhelming majority of the laity and the larger part of the ministers feel the time has come for unification."

Attends Asks Place in Church. A letter from Nell Carey Tichenor of New York, an actress and dancer, asking that the conference lift the ban on amusements and permit actors and actresses to join the church, was read to the delegates.

Bags Speeding Robbers. Few Minutes After Holdup. Sgt. The robbers were speeding along Fullerton avenue when Winge halted them. They robbed them $24 and a watch.

Purse Snatcher Beats Woman Who Resists Him. Mrs. Margaret Fick, 2339 Diversey avenue, was beaten into unconsciousness at Kinzie and Western avenue early this morning when she resisted efforts of a Negro to snatch her purse. She was taken to the Cook county hospital.

ON W-G-N

According to answers received in a questionnaire conducted by a periodical at more than 5,000 filling stations, only one person in fifty knows that gasoline is a distillation of crude petroleum. An effort to increase this percentage will be made at W-G-N tonight, when A. J. Callaghan, president of the American Oil Men's association, will speak on "The Story of Oil." He will trace the manufacture of gasoline from the time it is taken from the ground as well as giving the various uses to which it is put.

Tonight's musical program will be composed largely of selections from comic operas of a few years ago.

CHEERS GREET MUNDELEIN AT GOTHAM'S PORT

pleased that Chicago should be honored by the appointment of a new cardinal. "I told every one that we always lived in peace in Chicago, that there had never been any trouble between ourselves and our non-Catholic brethren, and that it was my earnest wish and something I had prayed for, that we will always remain united as a part to the world and a uniting force."

"I feel that the honor that has been done to the city of Chicago and its people is rather than to me," he said, "and I would like to have it treated that way."

"There is one thing that I do want to say. I want to express my earnest thanks for the reception that has been given to me. I wish to thank Mayor Hylan. He and I were poor and obscure together."

The cardinal was dressed in the conventional black clerical. His socks were of red, befitting his age. And he held his silk hat in his hand as he sat and talked.

Pope's Health Excellent.

"The last time I saw the holy father he was in splendid health," he declared. "I pray that, barring accidents, he may live to be as old as Pope Leo XIII, and he lived to be 82."

The new cardinal broke into a laugh as a reporter asked him whether he brought honors with him for persons in his diocese.

"I will answer that later," he replied. "A cardinal returning home comes like Santa Claus. But I cannot tell you all just now."

Then he chuckled again. Cardinal Mundelein has an infectious laugh as even Father Mundelein had when he was an unknown priest in Brooklyn.

"But I will say this," he said. "One of the honors (after he said two) is for a newspaper man."

The new cardinal laughed as he replied to a question as to whether he found the etiquette in Rome exciting. "I studied in Rome, so I was familiar with it. I think I shall introduce some of it to Chicago," he said.

He will speak his message to the people of Chicago when he reaches his own cathedral on Sunday, he declared. He said he brought a message from the pope, who specifically directed that word be carried to the seminary of St. Mary's of the Lake.

Blessed All on Ship.

There was a pause as D. F. Kelly asked as a special favor that the cardinal give his first blessing to those on the Macon. Creed was forgotten, rank and title were put aside, as Catholic, Protestant and Jew knelt in the crowded cabin. Swaying to the roll of the choppy sea, Cardinal Mundelein pronounced the Latin words of the benediction.

"And may God bless you and all your families and those who are dear to you," he said in English afterward. Through the darkness of lower Manhattan the cardinal was driven to the residence of Cardinal Hayes on Madison avenue and 60th street. It was a procession at forty miles an hour with klaxons blaring and the motor-cycles of the police escort barking warning.

His visit with the New York prelate with whom he was elevated at the Easter consistory was short, twenty minutes at the most. Then he was whisked again over the wet streets to the Vanderbilt hotel. There a chair upholstered in red was waiting for him at the banquet which was to have been given in his honor.

Met by Chicagoans.

Cardinal Mundelein was met at the door and escorted in by Robert H. Switzer, Patrick J. Carr, Martin J. O'Brien, Arthur O'Brien, James Joseph Sabath, J. P. McGorty, and Bernard Baras, and Ad. F. J. Tomczak to the table where were placed Mayor Hylan, Bishop Edward Hoban, Bishop James Griffin, Bishop Ledvina of Texas, Mr. Edward A. Kelly, Mr. Francis J. Kelley, Mr. M. J. Fitzsimmons, D. F. Kelly, Edward Hines, George E. Brennan, William H. Powell, John V. Murphy, David F. Brennan, Joseph T. Connerly, Father C. J. Quille, and Edward Kirschner.

Among the first to greet the cardinal were his sisters, Mrs. Margaret Eppig and Mrs. Arthur Hull.

As he entered the room, the delegations which had waited so long paused a moment in reverence and then broke into "The Star Spangled Banner." The clapping and cheering seemed endless.

Grecia Cardinal As Guest.

Mayor Hylan greeted the cardinal in the name of the city of New York. The banquet guests rose to their feet again as the cardinal made his reply. "Little did I dream forty odd years ago when I was a poor boy running about the streets of the east side of this city that some day this city's mayor of 4,000,000 people would one day come to give me his official welcome," he said. "From no one could this welcome be more appropriate than from Mayor Hylan, for we know each other long ago when we both dwelt in obscurity in Brooklyn."

"But though I was born in New York, it is to Chicago, after all, to the people of Chicago, that my heart rose out at this hour. I am grateful to them for the welcome they always have given me. They gave me a welcome when I came to them unknown, as they give it to me now. I believe it reaches its highest point this evening."

"With all my heart I thank you. If you will content yourselves with these few words for the present, I will try to show you, more by my acts than by my words, how much I appreciate your greeting."

The whole gathering followed the cardinal as he concluded and was ushered to his suite on the eighteenth floor of the hotel.

His guests was not yet over. It was his turn now to greet the individual members of the delegations and all those who sought to kiss the papal ring.

The line stretched far into the hallway. Chambermaids rubbed shoulders with monsignors, bell boys stood next to millionaires as they waited to do honor to Chicago's own prince of the church. Cardinal Hayes will return Cardinal Mundelein's visit tomorrow morning, before the special train over the Baltimore and Ohio leaves him westward to the welcome that awaits him at home.

There were many picturesque contrasts offered earlier in the course of the welcome given Chicago's first cardinal.

Recalls Parents' Voyage.

Some one asked the cardinal whether the priest that baptized him was still alive, and he answered in the negative. Then he said he was baptized in old St. Nicholas church on 3d street. In the same church in which his mother and his grandfather had been baptized. He added with a laugh:

"They didn't come over on the Berengaria; they came on a sailing ship and it took them thirty-two days to get across."

There was a question about the Chicago charities and the cardinal said he had written on the ship a letter before the special train over the Baltimore and Ohio leaves him westward to the welcome that awaits him at home.

There was a question about the Chicago charities and the cardinal said he had written on the ship a letter before the special train over the Baltimore and Ohio leaves him westward to the welcome that awaits him at home.

He added with a laugh: "They didn't come over on the Berengaria; they came on a sailing ship and it took them thirty-two days to get across."

Chief Collins' office yesterday to receive final instructions for handling the Sunday traffic, so there may be no hitch in the procession which proceeds from the train between hundreds of thousands of spectators.

The cardinal's party will proceed east in the south drive of Garfield boulevard from Western avenue to Michigan boulevard, north in Michigan boulevard and Lake Shore drive to North avenue, west in North avenue to Dearborn parkway, south in Dearborn parkway to Chicago avenue, east in Chicago avenue to State street, and south in State street to Superior street.

Plan Special Rides.

Early in the afternoon traffic and parking is to be halted in the south drive of Garfield boulevard and in Michigan boulevard. North bound automobiles will be diverted to Wabash avenue, while south bound cars will proceed on State street. Returning north in Lincoln park will be turned into Clark and La Salle streets.

The Chicago Motor Coach company has announced special rides for its buses. Beginning at 2:15, south bound coaches will alter their course at Diversey parkway, skirting the western border of Lincoln park to Chicago street, where they will turn into Clark street and thence into La Salle to Ohio street.

They will run east in Ohio to Dearborn street, south to Monroe street, east to State street. Returning north in State to Ohio street, they will turn west to La Salle street and then follow the same course back.

South side buses will travel north in Wabash avenue and south in State street until the procession has passed, when they will revert to their old route along Michigan boulevard.

Catholic Students to March.

The cardinal's parade will halt at the archiepiscopal residence, North avenue and State parkway, for some time before proceeding to the cathedral. Several thousand students of Catholic schools are to precede his eminence in the procession to the cathedral.

Comment in the Saigon papers points out that M. Merin has been commissioned to review the whole Franco-Japanese relations with a view to discussing the desire expressed in the Japanese press to find a way to escape Anglo-Saxon domination. There is even a possibility of a rapprochement with Russia and Germany, it is suggested.

M. Merin had an audience today with Prince Regent Hirohito, who decorated him with the Order of the Rising Sun, first class, with a cordon, the highest honor ever conferred on a foreigner except royalty.

SIX MEN HANGED FOR SLAYING OF ONE IN ROBBERY

Amite, La., May 9.—[By the Associated Press.]—Six men who three years ago attempted to rob a bank, resulting in the murder of a man, went to their deaths at the end of the hangman's noose today in the Tangipahoa parish jail.

They were executed in pairs, the aged coward hanging running from the improvised platform immediately after each pair had dropped, only to return after their bodies had been cut down to prepare the nooses for those next. The executioner today brought his total to thirteen.

The bodies of Andre Lamentia, Joseph Giglio, and Roy Leona will be shipped to Brooklyn, N. Y. Joseph Rini's body will be taken to Chicago by his father. Natalie Deamora will find rest in the cemetery at his home in New Orleans. Joseph Boochie, the friendless boy, who had a liking for literature and music, and who wanted to be a priest, will escape the potter's grave through a welfare organization which will take his remains to New Orleans.

The men were hanged on the double gallows at thirty minute intervals with clocklike regularity, four dying calmly and the other two, one as a result of an attempt at suicide and the other of nervous collapse, realizing little of what was in progress. The executions began at noon.

Lamentia, while Leona and Deamora, the first pair to hang, were swaying from the gallows and Rini and Giglio were waiting to begin their walk to the scaffold, obtained a small pocketknife had secreted and stabbed and slashed himself in the chest several times.

Rini and Giglio were returned to their cell and Lamentia was taken into the corridor for an examination by physicians. They pronounced the wounds superficial and those in charge of the executions sent Lamentia and Boochie to the scaffold. Boochie had to be carried to the scaffold.

Lamentia, with his shirt stained with blood from the self-inflicted wounds, could not stand and he was seated in a chair on the trap and went to his death in that manner.

Rini and Giglio talked before the death masks were adjusted. "This is butchery and ought to be stopped. Four are dead already and now you are killing two more. I hope you devils are satisfied," Rini said bitterly.

COACHES DIFFER ON LEGALITY OF
HIGH JUMP STYLE

SLOW MOVIES OF JUMP

NEW YORK, May 9.—The American Olympic committee is in a quandary over the legality of the high jumping style of Harold Osborne, world's indoor record holder of the Illinois Athletic club, that it has authorized slow motion pictures to be taken of it and used as a means of instructing youthful jumping candidates.

This was disclosed today by Frederick W. Rubien, secretary of the American Olympic committee, who reiterated his belief that the council of the International Amateur Athletic federation would sustain the legality of Osborne's so-called "western roll" question over which has been raised by French Olympic officials.

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

Reports that the French Olympic committee has questioned the legality of the high jumping style used by Harold Osborne of the I. A. C., holder of the world's indoor record at 6 feet 9 1/2 inches, and a sure member of the American Olympic team, may have a serious bearing on this event in the future.

Ever since George Horine of Leland, Ill., used the same form, and both in 1912; there has been a big question as to the legality of the attempt. In fact Horine's style of jumping was questioned in 1912 when the Olympic games were held in Stockholm, but it was finally allowed. Since that time many high jumpers have adopted the western style and broken records have resulted.

Osborne adopted the University of Illinois he was among the first to adopt the style introduced by Horine. At the same time Dewey Albritton, another pupil of Harry Gill at Chicago, used the same form, and both were sure point winners in every meet. Other athletes in the middle west and east discarded the western style and adopted the form used by Horine, Horne, and Albritton.

On March 29, 1912, Horine established a national intercollegiate record of 6 feet 9 1/2 inches in the high jump. His performance also stood as a world's record until 1914, when Eddie Brown of the University of California cleared the bar at 6 feet 7 1/2 inches, the present world record. Brown copied and improved upon the form used by Horine. At that time well known coaches and close followers of amateur athletics claimed the style was illegal and that the athlete dove over the bar in sort of a side roll motion.

Coaches, however, soon realized it was useless to attempt any legislation against the form and started to teach to their own athletes. In so doing their coaches or the jumpers themselves have hit upon a more practical method of holding the bar before the feet and the athlete dove over the bar on the pommel, as it is called, and the athlete dove over the bar in sort of a side roll motion.

The clause of the high jumping rule in the code of the International Amateur Athletic federation, which governs Olympic competitions, reads: "A high jump is one where the head of the contestant does not go over the bar before the feet and is not below the buttocks in clearing the bar."

The rule regarding high jumping adopted by the National Collegiate A. A. U. reads: "An illegal jump shall be one in which the competitor dives over the bar or the bar or jumps in such a manner that his head crosses the bar in advance of either foot."

A well known official who holds a responsible position in one of the larger intercollegiate bodies of this country recently stated that about one every four jumps made by Osborne, Horne, and Horine are legal according to the strict interpretation of the rule. Still another coach of a certain western university has always claimed the form used by Osborne and Horne was illegal, but there was no one to protest as officials permitted it.

"Roller" Osborne.

Osborne's style of jumping has been copied in all large sets of games held in this country. His form was not questioned at the Penn and Drake relays nor in the western conference meets while he was a member of Harry Gill's Illinois track team.

Since he joined the Illinois A. C., the tri-color club team has competed in the National A. A. U. indoor and outdoor championship meets, not to mention sectional A. A. U. games. His jumps have always been allowed, but apparently the French Olympic committee is placing a different view on his performance.

In track and field parlance, the I. A. C. athlete is known as Harold "Roller" Osborne. Harold runs for the bar, leaps in the air, and practically flattens out on the bar, at the same time rolling toward the pit. Whether his head clears the bar before any other part of his body is a matter which only the officials who stand at both ends of the cross bar can determine.

GASOLINE ALLEY—CONFLICTING REPORTS SEEM TO BE COMING IN

to Help Olympic Fund Today

BY JOE DAVIS.

Today is Olympic fund day with the majority of golf clubs in the Chicago district having arranged some form of event to assist in swelling Chicago's quota.

Already a number of them have notified Chairman Everts Wrenn they will donate specified amounts, and those with the sums realized today at the private, forest preserve, public parks, and daily fee courses are expected to net about $10,000.

Some of the clubs will stage their events tomorrow, while others whose sources are not yet ready will make a donation and play the Olympic event later.

Westmoreland yesterday announced it would stage a big attraction on Thursday afternoon when Jack Hutchison and Leslie Ayton will oppose Chick Evans and Al Espinoza, the California professional who is now making his home in Chicago. Al and Abe Espinoza, his brother, are two of the best professionals California has produced. Their family has lived in San Francisco for four generations.

The Devonshire Golf club is an Olympic fund tournament, for which President Henry Thomson has donated a trophy. The club donated $200 to the fund.

The board of governors of the Western Edgebrook Forest Preserve Golf club met at the home of Mrs. Duane Faxon, the president, yesterday and completed the schedule. Play will start May 24, events being planned for each week. Wednesday is the ladies' day and the first Wednesday in each month will be a special day for the club.

By those in a position to know it was said yesterday that the 143 acres had been purchased by Henry Paachen of the contracting firm of Paachen Brothers. He paid a certain amount of earnest money, and now is awaiting the delivery of the deeds.

The future of the property is uncertain. The Evanston Golf club has considered the plan of enlarging its present course to twenty-seven holes, taking in some of the property originally set apart for home sites. Unofficially some of the leading members have discussed the feasibility of using a whole or a portion of the Devonshire property for increasing their playing facilities.

The Devonshire club purchased the land for $161,000 and it is estimated the improvements have cost around $180,000.

Fine Profit for Members.

As Mr. Paachen is reported to have paid between $600,000 and $850,000 for the property the members will realize a fine profit.

FROM ITS TITLE HOPES

Suburban League.

More at Dearborn.
Oak Park at Washington.
New Trier at Evanston.

Lane Tech knocked the title aspirations of Lake View and put the latter in the also ran class yesterday, 5 to 3, in a north section City High School baseball league game at De Paul field. Two runs in the first gave the losers a slim lead until the fifth, after which they were out of the running, except for the final inning, when the stakes were crowded after one run had scored. This rally was cut short by Watson, who speared a hot one and beat Schneidewind to first by a cream.

What is this, a convention? demanded the admiral after two haughty night clerks had refused us lodging.

"Naps," came the answer and a pitying glance. "This is Mankato, with a good crop and dairy outlook ahead. Traveling salesmen are skimming the cream, that's all."

Here, as in all parts of the west where the traveling salesmen cover their territories by car, the small coupe of them on the road, carrying expensive equipment of everything from rubber boots to radio sets. Time tables are coming to mean less in the lives of the commercial traveler.

All gravel roads tap Minnesota all along its southern border, from the Mississippi to Sioux Falls. No less than twelve main state trunk lines radiate from the state from four of them well marked and well maintained gravel.

FLIVVER LAND.

MANKATO, Minn., May 9.—(Special.)—Old home week in Mankato has nothing on this thriving center of the Minnesota valley, when it comes to gathering in the migratory clans from the hard highway.

We passed through leagues of winding trail last night, racing with the river in a deluge of rain that turned to snow as the route lifted into Minnesota, only to find all of the streets packed with clay capped flivvers and knights of the grip occupying two blocks from basement to garret.

What is this, a convention? demanded the admiral after two haughty night clerks had refused us lodging.

U. S. BALL ADOPTED

PARIS, May 9.—An American tennis ball today was chosen for use in the Olympic games, the French Tennis federation, which has opposed the use of the American ball, capitulating to the French Olympic committee, which after a seven weeks' conflict, the ball withstood the most severe tests of resiliency imposed by the French Tennis federation.

Members of the French Olympic committee, when they announced selection of the American ball last February, were accused by members of the tennis federation with having adopted a ball of American make for the purpose of favoring the American tennis players over the English and French.

New York, May 9.—[Special.]—Vincenzo Richards, national indoor champion and fourth ranking tennis player in the country, will be a member of the United States Olympic team which will play at Paris in July. This was made known today when the Davis cup committee of the United States Lawn Tennis association announced the makeup of the men's team.

In addition to Richards, R. Norris Williams, of Philadelphia, the third ranking player in the country, Francis T. Hunter of Beckley, W. Va., who rates fifth, and Watson M. Washburn of this city, who played on the 1921 Davis cup doubles team, will represent this country at Paris.

Leaves of Absence as Writers. Richards' selection for the team followed the conference held between Col. Robert M. Thompson, chairman of the American Olympic committee, and the head of the news service for which Richards works.

The head of the news service consented to engage another reporter to do Richards' work during the tennis play, so that the indoor champion will be eligible to play for his country. It is understood the Olympic rules allow a star only during the time of actual competition.

In addition to naming the men's Olympic team, the Davis cup committee also selected the women's combination, which will defend the Hazel Hotchkiss Wightman cup at Wimbledon on June 15 and 19.

Lineup of Women Players. The team will be composed of Mrs. George W. Wightman, donor of the cup; Miss Helen Wills, the national champion; Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, former Wimbledon; Mrs. Marion Zinsmeister, champion of the United States; and Miss Eleanor Goss, the third ranking player in the country. Miss Leslie Bancroft of Boston and Miss Lillian Scherman of Brooklyn have been named as alternate players.

This same combination, with the exception of Mrs. Mallory, who is ineligible, probably will represent the United States in the Olympics also. Each of the four named, under the Olympic regulations, will play in singles and two teams in the doubles. Williams and Washburn undoubtedly will pair together, and Richards and Hunter.

Robert and Howard Kinsey of San Francisco have been named in reserve, should any of the regular members of the team be unable to sail.

ROTATION MAKES CROPS PAY ALONG IOWA-MINNESOTA LINE.

FAIRMONT, Minn., May 9.—[Special.]—Hired hands seem to be the least of the worries of dairy farmers in the northwestern corner of southern Minnesota and northern Iowa. The introduction of two row cultivators, rotating crops, so that the work of planting, cultivating and harvesting is spread out through the year, and the feeding of many crops in the field where they are grown, has made it possible for farmers to get along with less labor.

Wages range anywhere from $40 to $50 a month. The usual wage is $45 a month. Many of the hired men own automobiles and the farmer furnishes free shed room.

August Rosenberg, near the Iowa-Minnesota line, who runs a farm of more than 200 acres, has cut the labor problem on his place by developing a crop rotating system that is considered the best in this neck of the woods.

He has his farm divided into five fields, and starts with soy beans. The next year he plants corn where the beans grew. The third year oats are sown in the old cornfield, and along with the oats red clover is sown in one-half of the field and sweet clover on the other half. The red clover is cut the next year for hay and the sweet clover is used for pasture.

It is common to hear farmers grumbling about not making any money during the last few seasons, but with this scheme of farming, Mr. Rosenberg's records show that he has made a good profit for the last three years. By rotating his crops in this way he is able to grow some of the finest seeds in northern Iowa, and his seed corn, soy beans, hulls and leavened oats have been in demand this spring among local growers.

In our tour of more than 2,000 miles this is the first section we have struck where there is an appreciable increase in the breeding of draft cows.

The tractor has been resorted to as a labor saving machine until this year. Farmers talked with along the way showed us their tractors standing in the sheds where they have been since last fall. Oil, gasoline, and repairs are so high that they are trying to do their plowing with horses.

Little work has been done in the fields this week. Many southern Minnesota farmers still have half or more of their plowing to do. Comparatively few acres of corn have been planted north of the southern border of this state. Growers say that the ground still is too cold. Recent cold rains and the blanket of snow that covered the fields last night pulling the temperature down below 40 degrees caused farmers' fears that much of their corn will be rotted in the ground, forcing them to replant.

While the fruit trees in southern Illinois had dropped most of their petals a week ago when our touring party passed through Egypt, the apple blossoms here have just begun to show pink. Blossoms of the cherries and other early blooming fruits were covered with snow this morning.

After a long absence, the "Kid" Herman have been engaged to act as Tom's sparring partners, while Sam Mandell and Bud Taylor will be in the camp and Gibbons will work with them for speed. New York, May 9.—[Special.]—Suspension of Harry Greb, middleweight title holder, and Kid Norfolk, Negro middleweight, from pugilistic activity for six months in New York state was ordered today by the state athletic commission after it had learned the reasons for similar disqualifications of these two fighters in Massachusetts.

The New York board also announced that it had selected Dave Shado, Pacific coast welterweight, as the most logical opponent for Mickey Walker, world's welterweight champion.

As the welterweight champion is not a licensed boxer in this state no action can be taken against him for failure to recognize Shado's challenge, but application by him for a license will be granted only upon condition that he fulfill his pledge to meet any contender the commission might select.

AURORA BOUTS OFF
UNTIL NEXT TUESDAY

Because of unsettled weather conditions, the boxing show scheduled to take place at Aurora last night was postponed until Tuesday. Promoter Jim Mullen received word from Aurora early yesterday morning that conditions in the Fox River valley were unfavorable and he immediately put the show over until next week.

Fighters resumed training at the various gymnasiums yesterday. Herbert Schaeffer of the stock yards, who meets Ernie Goodman of Milwaukee in the main event, boxed six rounds at the Aurora, while Goodman put in a busy afternoon at the Mullen-McGoorty gym.

Other fighters on the card took up the training grind and as a result should be in better shape by Tuesday night.

Gibbons Has Busy Day.
Tom Gibbons, the St. Paul heavyweight matched to meet Georges Carpentier of France, at Michigan City on May 31, put in another busy day at the Arcade where he boxed and went through the usual gymnasium work.

Tom played golf yesterday morning and will be the guest of Louis Swift at Lake Forest this afternoon.

The St. Paul fighter accompanied by Manager Eddie Kane and retinue of sparring partners and trainers, will leave for Michigan City tomorrow morning. Tom expects to work there in the afternoon.

NOTES BY THE WAY.
IF YOU want more black bees in the streams and lakes of your neighborhood, the quickest way to get 'em is to start a hatchery and raise 'em and plant 'em yourself.

That's the philosophy of the fishermen in the Will county chapter of the Izaak Walton league at Joliet, Ill., which is about as live a bunch of outdoor fans as we have ever seen. They have set as their goal purer streams and more fish and they're plugging away toward that end.

The hatchery which they are building is a short distance from Joliet and will be able to turn out 100,000 bass a season, according to E. C. Bassett, the president of the Walton chapter in that city. Business men whose hearts are in the right place have made the project possible.

Although black bear cubs, wolves, beaver, woodchucks, deer, muskellunge, trout, bass, pike, and other representatives from the fins and fur kingdoms will be numerous in the Coliseum next week when the outdoor show will be held, you'll have to leave your gun and fishin' tackle at home; that is, if you visit the show. No shooting or fishing will be permitted except in the show.

Besides all the exhibits of fish and game, which in themselves should be quite educational, a number of Chipewyan Indians from Wisconsin are going to be there to show the pale faces some of their tribal dances and customs.

BELOIT FAIRIES TACKLE SQUARES THIS AFTERNOON
Beloit's Fairies, composed mostly of former White Sox and Senators, will be the attraction this afternoon and tomorrow at Nielsen's park, where the Logan Squares will make their Chicago debut in the Midwest league.

The Fairies have stepped first as for spring. They will use Daveport on the slab today against either Hoffman or Kelly.

Big Jim Vaughn, ex-Cub, will be the Beloit twirler tomorrow, when the fans of Logan Square will make a day of it. A parade, headed by a brass band, has been arranged by the Logan Square A. C. Manager John Callahan of the Squares plans on sending Padock against "Hippo."

THE END OF ROJAS.
Once the Iowa had the South American fully on the run, he waded in unceasingly until they swung the count over the visitor—making his debut here probably his farewell appearance as well.

BY HARRY NEWMAN.
New York, May 9.—[Special.]—Floyd Johnson of Iowa knocked out Quintin Romero-Rojas of Chile in the seventh round of a scheduled ten round bout in Madison Square Garden tonight before a crowd of 9,000 fans.

A left hook to the chin followed by a right to the same spot dropped Romero-Rojas for the full count after one minute and forty-seven seconds of fighting in the seventh stanza.

It was a slugging match, and from a scientific standpoint not much of a fight, but Johnson put a full stop to the North American career of the South American entry. Romero-Rojas had nothing but a good fighting heart; he knew nothing at all about boxing.

Early Kisses for Canvas. Romero-Rojas was down for a count of four in the first round and appeared to be in bad shape when the round ended. Again in the second round Romero-Rojas flopped for a count of four when Johnson nailed him with a crack on the chin. Romero-Rojas was a sorry sight, with his left eye practically closed after the third round. He was a sad specimen as a fighter.

Johnson did not have much except his usual confidence and a will to keep pegging punches at his man, but the Chilean could not summon sufficient to the boxing lore when the opportunity offered to turn the tide.

The End of Rojas.
Once the Iowa had the South American fully on the run, he waded in unceasingly until they swung the count over the visitor—making his debut here probably his farewell appearance as well.

CUBS OPEN LONG GRIND AT HOME; BATTLE ROBINS

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
After gullivanting around the country for the better part of three months, Bill Killefer and his Cubs are about to settle down and get acquainted with the home folks.

Starting today they will greet all comers at the north side park and before they hit the road again they will have entertained six of the other seven clubs in the Hoyle circuit.

The first callers will be Uncle W. Robinson and his Robins. They are billed for four games after which the Giants, Phillies and Braves come in the order named.

When the eastern invasion has subsided the Pirates and Reds will drop in and on June 3, the Killefers will pack up and start on their first trip along the seaboard.

Having taken a dislike to the way in which the Cubs' batting has fallen off, Killefer ordered his men out for a protracted drill yesterday morning. After two of days Killefer is fairly well fixed for hurlers, so may call on any one of three men this afternoon. Elmer Jacobs who has lost some hard luck games despite great pitching, is the first choice with Alexander and Aldridge next in line.

SOX BATTLE YANKS
BY FRANK SCHREIBER.
Johnny Evers and his hopeful band of White Sox eased into this city tonight ready and eager for their initial series of the season, with the eastern clubs. Tomorrow afternoon Evers will make his bow to New York as manager of an American league club when the Sox clash with the champion Yankees in the first game of a series of four.

The Sox are catching the league leaders in a rather bad position. Two of the New York pitching staff are in a bad way. Joe Bush is troubled with sinus trouble, while Sam Jones is recovering from a recent flu attack. This will leave the pitching burden against the Sox to Bob Shawkey, who is slated to toil tomorrow, Waite Hoyt and Herb Pennock, with a rocky tolling the final game of the set.

Ruth, too, is on the sick list. He has been troubled with bronchitis and has been ordered to bed by his physician and Manager Miller Huggins. But Ruth has played during the last week in spite of doctor's orders. Rain on the last two days has given Ruth forty-eight hours of rest.

Red Blankschtein or Gotham Levee are the hurling choices for the Sox. All in all, the tribe of Evers is ready and hopeful of knocking the Yanks for a row.

"$33,000,000 IN CUBAN TREASURY BAIT FOR REVOLT"

Cabinet Man Says Cut in Budget Stirs Row.

BY LARRY RUE.
(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
(Copyright: 1924: By The Chicago Tribune.)
HAVANA, Cuba, May 9.—The entire cabinet of motives (but inspire men to action from bank robbery to crusading) is cited as the cause of the revolutionary outbreaks here.

The Tribune obtained the government viewpoint through interviews with four members of the cabinet. In the Spanish jail here the correspondent listened for two hours today to the complaints of the leaders of the government movement, otherwise known as the Veterans and Patriots' association, who were arrested ten days ago to forestall agitation on behalf of the insurrectionary forces.

Has $33,000,000 in Treasury.

"You can be sure," he said, "that not more than 2 per cent of the population is in sympathy with the rebels. Two years ago Cuba was suffering from post war depression like all other countries. Through economy and the adoption of efficiency administrative methods President Zayas reversed the conditions into unrelieved prosperity. Now we not only have a balance of $33,000,000 in the treasury but have made a payment on the foreign debt, something unheard of before in Cuba.

To accomplish this it was necessary to cut the budget practically in half, reducing expenses from approximately $120,000,000 to $60,000,000. This necessitated the reduction of the government employees to almost half. It had been customary in Cuba for the government to exploit the pay roll for political ends. We refused to do this. Hence former employees and their families are doing everything they can against us.

Another thing is the $33,000,000 in the treasury. There are those who would like to get in power in order to profit through spending this.

"Acted Fair With Labor."

"The workers for a while were against us for breaking the general strike. I think now, however, that the workers are convinced that we were acting fairly in our disputes with capital. In the general strike when I thought that capital was right I supported it by sending workers to its aid. On the other hand, I took the side of labor when the railroads attempted to discharge those participating in the May day demonstrations."

In a later article THE TRIBUNE will present the gist of the statements of the members of the Good Government association as to the reasons for the revolution.

STRIKES, TERROR ENGULF HOPE OF SOVIET SURVIVAL

(Copyright: 1924: By The Chicago Tribune.)
BERLIN, May 9.—From all parts of Russia come reports of the disintegrating of the already rotten bolshevik economic system. Peasants' uprisings and industrial strikes, although not threatening the stability of the soviet government, yet are shattering the bolsheviks' last hope of reestablishing their own industries. Reports of arrests by the thousands and numerous executions are now officially confirmed.

A strike on the Amur railway brought the arrest of practically all its employees, with the execution of six engineers and fifteen other employees at Khabarovsk on a charge of treason.

Denies Russian Hostility.
GENEVA, May 9.—(By Associated Press.)—Foreign Minister Duce of Roumania, who accompanied King Ferdinand and Queen Marie on their visit to Geneva today, denied reports that skirmishes had occurred on the Russian-Roumanian border, and said that cordial relations existed along the frontier, where a mixed commission was working harmoniously.

Burglars who drilled their way into the Louis Lipman Clothing Manufacturing company's plant at 1131 Milwaukee avenue yesterday exchanged several bullets with a watchman who interrupted their escape with $6,000 worth of merchandise. Two of the robbers were captured.

NEW $44,000,000 LOAN PLANNED BY IRISH FREE STATE

BY JOHN STEELE.

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
(Copyright: 1924: By The Chicago Tribune.)
DUBLIN, May 9.—The Free State will have to issue a new loan in the near future. The budget for 1924 and 1925 falls to balance by about $8,500,000 ($37,400,000), and another loan of $10,000,000 ($44,000,000) probably will be necessary.

The Free State's position is one of the soundest of the European states. Apart from the nebulous liability of a share in the British national debt, which the Irish claim is more than offset by their claim for a refund on overpayment in Ireland in the past, the only liability is $10,000,000 on the loan issued a few months ago.

The result of this loan is a triumph for the judgment of statesmen against that of bankers. The Irish bankers urged that the loan be issued at 92 per cent. The politicians insisted they could get money on a 5 per cent loan at 98, and the result abundantly justified their estimate. The loan was heavily oversubscribed.

Surprised by Irish Farmers.

The results of the last loan were against all the experiences of those familiar with Irish financial conditions. The Irish farmer, who is the only possible investor on a large scale, never has been trained for investment. He has been keeping his money in deposit

PARLIAMENT IN UPROAR AS SCOTS ASK HOME RULE

BY VINCENT SHEEHAN.

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
(Copyright: 1924: By The Chicago Tribune.)
LONDON, May 9.—The Scotch home rule bill, presented in the house of commons today, was filibustered out during a violent tumult, unusual in the British parliament. Labor and Liberal members tried to shout down the Conservatives, most of the uproar coming from the Scotch section, which numbers seventy-two.

George Buchanan, Glasgow Socialist, introduced the bill, for which the MacDonald government has decided to take no responsibility, although it views it with favor.

The Scotch duchess of Atholl led the opposition to the proposal in a speech, which succeeded in getting through before the uproar began.

Mr. Buchanan, in presenting the bill, said that the Scotch people were unanimous in their desire to manage their internal affairs, and resented being governed by a parliament predominantly English. He asserted that desire is just as sincere as the Irish.

He warned the English members that the Scotch were all prepared for the usual array of Scotch jokes, but added that this was no laughing matter, as it represented the demand of a nation, fifty-five Liberal and Labor members, and seventy-two Scotch representatives in parliament supported the measure, which also drew heavy Labor and Liberal support in England.

The uproar finally became so great that the speaker despaired of restoring order and left the house without proceeding with the orders of the day and an adjournment was forced. The Conservatives, therefore, won the filibuster. However, it is believed that when the measure comes up again it must quietly be considered.

It is hoped that the next budget will be balanced without trouble. The army is now reduced from 50,000 to 20,000, and the expenditures are new men are being enlisted at lower rates than the inflated wages made necessary by civil war conditions.

LONDON, May 9.—The Scotch home rule bill, presented in the house of commons today, was filibustered out during a violent tumult, unusual in the British parliament. Labor and Liberal members tried to shout down the Conservatives, most of the uproar coming from the Scotch section, which numbers seventy-two.

George Buchanan, Glasgow Socialist, introduced the bill, for which the MacDonald government has decided to take no responsibility, although it views it with favor.

The Scotch duchess of Atholl led the opposition to the proposal in a speech, which succeeded in getting through before the uproar began.

Mr. Buchanan, in presenting the bill, said that the Scotch people were unanimous in their desire to manage their internal affairs, and resented being governed by a parliament predominantly English. He asserted that desire is just as sincere as the Irish.

He warned the English members that the Scotch were all prepared for the usual array of Scotch jokes, but added that this was no laughing matter, as it represented the demand of a nation, fifty-five Liberal and Labor members, and seventy-two Scotch representatives in parliament supported the measure, which also drew heavy Labor and Liberal support in England.

The uproar finally became so great that the speaker despaired of restoring order and left the house without proceeding with the orders of the day and an adjournment was forced. The Conservatives, therefore, won the filibuster. However, it is believed that when the measure comes up again it must quietly be considered.

It is hoped that the next budget will be balanced without trouble. The army is now reduced from 50,000 to 20,000, and the expenditures are new men are being enlisted at lower rates than the inflated wages made necessary by civil war conditions.

Shrimp Pie with Bread.

CHARLESTON, S. C. (Special Correspondence.)—Mrs. Kernebaugh, a devoted clergyman's wife who saw many years of service in this city, in talking with me about southern cooking—she got out her recipe for shrimp pie with bread from a desk in the room—said that she was taught certain food manipulations when she was a girl as much as she was taught how to sew. She said that she was taught that all in her family had to learn because her mother did not think they were "fit to be married" until they knew the things, for instance, as how to cut up venison, and how to treat it—without hacking it to pieces.

In her family now they have shrimp almost every day in summer, because she is so accustomed to it, and she will not buy those that are "all head and tail," and she does not want cheese with them, nor rice. She also wants the little shrimp that are the great big prawns which are strong.

For her shrimp pie she takes two plates of shrimps, after they have been boiled and peeled, and enough bread to give it body—three or four slices cut up to half a loaf. The bread is soaked in milk, and the tomato and onion put through a colander so that it will have no lumps. It is then mixed with scraped onion, and a little of any spices you choose, but no pepper. Celery leaves are used, but not the stalks, better than does common salt, and a great deal of butter. When put to bake, it is covered with a thin layer of half an hour, and then let stand for half an hour. It will still be hot enough to eat.

When quizzed as to a more precise amount of bread to use Mrs. Kernebaugh said that she used to use more bread to use with shrimp, but that she must be enough to hold it together, and you learn by practice how much.

ANSWER TO WHAT'S WRONG HERE

When walking with two women at night, a man offers his arm only to the older.

Unless She Can Give Up Luxuries, She Doesn't Really Care

BY DORIS BLAKE.

I am asked: "Would you advise a young girl of 19, loving a man of 24, who is educated and a writer, earning a salary of about $60 a week, no money saved, to marry?"

The girl, the letter explains, is accustomed to luxuries and craves them. If they marry it means she will leave the city where her family and friends are to go to a strange city, amid strangers. The boy loves her devotedly. They have known each other for four years. He is an ambitious lad. Some day he will accomplish his aim.

WHAT'S WRONG HERE?

Bright Sayings of the Children

After a term at school, Mary was going back for another five months. "Aren't you excited that tomorrow is the first day of school?" asked a neighbor. "Well," said Mary, "No." "But," queried the neighbor, "You were anxious to go last year." "Yes," answered Mary, "but I didn't know what it was then." H. L. Donald's mother went to the next door neighbor's and left Donald to watch the baby in the crib. "Call me if she cries," mother told him. A few minutes later Donald started to run across the lawn. HOWELL-BARK BILL HELD PLAI BOLSTER UN

Viewed from one angle the Barkley bill is up a new for the regulation of railroad in effort to retrieve by legislation losses due to politically labor leadership.

Ever since the days of the regime the leadership of the "standard" labor organization at variance with the canons of British and American unionism. It has imitated the tactics of the British Labor parties, who long since broke up
"economic" policies which have
British trade unionism strong.

In Britain we have witnessed a revolt and revival of the older ticians. In this country the strength of the American Federation

Labor, dominated by Congress-now backed by Lewis—has never

With the launching of the ate Political Action," the growth of the "standard" railroad organizations, including the big service brotherhoods, without the of L., and the other organization in the federation, have pursued political and propaganda policy what different from that of the "cabinet." Much damaged goods was acquired in the process of this movement.

It now begins to appear that ship losses have been heavy. The wards of trade unionism, who too lose from the experiences of the of Labor, are again vindicated

On the other hand, it is not

HOWELL-BARKLEY BILL HELD PLAN TO BOLSTER UNION

BY SCRUTATOR.

Viewed from one angle the Howell-Barkley bill to set up a new system for the regulation of railroad labor is an effort to retrieve by legislative action losses due to politically minded labor leadership.

Ever since the days of the McAdoo regime the leadership of the so-called "standard" labor organizations has been at variance with the orthodox canons of British and American trade unionism. It has initiated the political tactics of the British Labor party leaders, who long since broke with the "economic" policies which had made British trade unionism strong.

In Britain we have witnessed recently a revival and of the older school, to the discomfort of the Socialist politicians. In this country the main strength of the American Federation of Labor, dominated by Gompers—who is now backed by Lewis—has never gone as far toward reliance on political activity as the railroad leadership.

With the launching of the Plum Plan and the later "Conference for Progressive Political Action," the leadership of the "standard" railroad organizations, including the big four train service brotherhoods, without the A. F. of L. and the other organizations within the federation, have pursued a joint political and propaganda policy somewhat different from that of the Gompers "cabinet." Much damaged political goods was acquired in the process of starting this movement.

It now begins to appear that membership losses have been heavy. The elder heads of trade unionism, who took warning from the experiences of the Knights of Labor, are again vindicated by the logic of events. They always held that political activity carried with it the peril of loss of interest and eventual loss of membership and economic power.

The big four have not suffered. Their position is too strong and the privileges too valuable. By virtue of the hazards of the occupation they are buttressed by a practical monopoly of the insurance business of their members. They have suffered little if any loss of membership, and have probably regained some of the losses of the 1920 "outlaw" strikes.

On the other hand, it is not well to take their alleged political solidarity and radicalism too seriously. Bright young men who write for the plunk magazines probably vision the members of these organizations as conscious radicals steeped with the sort of stuff that appears in one or two of the magazines. A matter of fact, they are largely substantial "bourgeoisie," who own their homes, send their children to college, and participate in the orthodox local politics of their communities.

As to the other organizations in the "standard" group, which now ask Congress to give them a privileged status and to restore the situation under which certain historic coups were executed, it is quite evident that they have declined in membership to a point which makes some of the recent strikes to the political power of this movement amusing to those who do not share the perennial gullibility of your professional "liberal."

DISMISS SUIT TO DISSOLVE STEEL MERGER

New York, May 9.—The suit brought to dissolve the merger of Cambria Steel and the Midvale Steel and Ordnance companies was dismissed today by Federal Judge Learned Hand.

The suit was brought by minority stockholders, who alleged that the Midvale Steel and Ordnance company, having obtained 97 per cent of the shares of the Cambria company stock, fraudulently agreed with the Bethlehem Steel company to convey to that company the assets of the Cambria company for an inadequate consideration. The bill also alleged that the Bethlehem company and the Cambria company were competing manufacturers and that their consolidation through the transfer was in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

Early Spring Lamb Supply Much Under Last Year

While April brought seasonal improvement in some of the early lamb areas, conditions about May 1, on the whole, were much less favorable than at the same date last year, according to a statement of the United States department of agriculture. Of the three important eastern early lamb states the improvement was most marked in Tennessee, while in Kentucky and Virginia cool weather checked the growth of pastures and the growth of the lambs was considerably less than usual. In the intermediate region of the north west lack of moisture and cold, windy weather delayed the growth of range feed and lambs have not done as well as last year. In California the foot and mouth embargo on eastern shipments and lack of sufficient killing capacity locally is delaying the marketing.

Government to Appeal Trenton Potteries Case

New York, May 9.—David L. Powell, special deputy United States attorney general, announced today he would appeal to the United States Supreme court the decision of the federal circuit court of appeals, which today reversed the judgment of conviction in the prosecution against the Trenton Potteries company, one of twenty-three corporations convicted of violating the Sherman anti-trust law.

The decision of the circuit court, written by Judge Hough, effected all the defendants, who were fined sums ranging from $2,500 to $5,000. The reversal was based on errors by the lower court.

$10,000,000 Bank Merger Effected at Davenport

Davenport, Ia., May 9.—Consolidation of two of the oldest banks in Davenport, the First National and Iowa National, into the First Iowa National bank, with resources of more than $10,000,000, was effected yesterday. The First National is the oldest National bank in the United States, having received charter No. 1 under the national bank act in 1863.

PRODUCE MARKETS

Eastern butter markets were 1/2 higher than Chicago was unchanged. Demand in the east was fairly active, and prices at Chicago were generally advanced 1/4 and lower. Fresh eggs sold readily with prices 1/4 higher than the consumer's call was on a 10-27 car storage packed first for May 6. Live heavy broilers advanced 3/4, white ducks 2 cars, 1,200 lbs. lower. FINANCIAL NOTES

Speculative uncertainty over the outcome of pending legislation, particularly the tax bill, was widely regarded as chiefly responsible for the stock market's lethargy. Many brokers and experienced investors who had been discouraged by the market had been waiting for some positive indication of the future trend of business before establishing a definite trend in either direction.

Sporadic attempts on the part of bear traders to unsettle the general list met with success in only a few instances. With the exception of Bethlehem, which closed slightly more than a point lower at 48 1/2, the steel shares held relatively firm. United States Steel common closed 1/4 higher at 98 1/2, with less than 10,000 shares traded in. Baldwin, Studebaker, United States Industrial Alcohol, Davison Chemical, and most of the other active industrial stock ground, but net losses were held to fractions. While buying power was extremely limited, the majority of stocks showed good resistance to selling pressure.

Doubting of the Ohio Oil company's quarterly dividend and optimistic statements on the future of the industry by Standard Oil and independent officials failed to make much impression on the oil shares, most of which exhibited a downward tendency. American Smelting dropped nearly 1 1/2 points to 63 despite recent reports of improvement in the statistical position of that industry.

Woolworth was the outstanding strong spot in the specialty list, the old stock jumping nearly 12 points to 33 1/2, and the new stock, which is traded in on a "when issued" basis, advanced 5/8 point to 87 1/2.

Prices of high grade bonds were well sustained but a lapse of speculative activity dulled the edge of trading. Unofficial Washington reports that the bonds will be sold by the government at 102 1/2 for the first mortgage bonds, 102 1/4 for the second mortgage bonds, and 102 1/4 for the third mortgage bonds.

Production of the United Verde Extension Mining company in April was 3,809,584 pounds of copper, against 3,809,584 in March and 3,809,584 in April last year.

A director of the Basick-Alumet corporation confirmed the report of the purchase of the Alumet-Zerk company by Cleveland Steel company. The director stated that the controlling interest in the E. S. Evans company, Inc., earlier in the year, together with the purchase of the Alumet-Zerk company, both of which were made without recourse to outside financing, had somewhat depleted the cash of the company, but that its earnings were far in excess of the current dividend rate. The directors are to meet on May 21.

Prediction of the United Verde Extension Mining company in April was 3,809,584 pounds of copper, against 3,809,584 in March and 3,809,584 in April last year.

GOLFERS FORM TRUST TO RUN PUBLIC LINKS

BY AL CHASE.

Fourteen Chicagoans, several of them millionaires, all well to do, and every one of them more or less handy with a driver, yesterday decided they'd let their knowledge of golf and golf courses earn them some real money.

Instead of using it merely as an amusement and an expense, the fourteen whanglers of the little white pill formed "the Golf Trust," with Paul C. Loeber, president, and they are going to own and operate public links throughout Cook and adjacent counties.

The other thirteen are: S. Sidney Stein, a member of the law firm of Moses, Rosenfield & Kennedy, who is secretary; Charles I. Erwin, treasurer; R. D. Cunningham; Harvey T. Woodruff, editor of this Tribune's "In the Wake of the News"; L. M. Stein, F. E. Alstair, Joe A. Rosenman, George A. O'Neill, James L. Strause, James P. Matson, Floyd L. Bateman, B. F. Stein, and Leonard Florsheim. S. Sidney Stein is attorney for the trust.

Subdividers on Their Trail. Mr. Loeber, Mr. Erwin, Mr. Cunningham, Mr. Woodruff, and L. M. Stein are known as "subscribers," but all have subscribed to various amounts of stock ranging from $20,000 downwards. Every member of the golf trust is supposed to be a specialist in some line of endeavor which will qualify him to aid in making money for the fourteen.

The Golf trust, which will handle the real estate, owns the golf course for the 42nd at 2135. The other is a 140 acre property on Waukegan road, near Niles. The trust already has received such an attractive offer from a subdivider for the 130 acre tract that it may never have a game of golf played on it.

Get Out the Old Odds Board. The forty-eight apartments at the southeast corner of Jeffery and 72d were sold by Arvid E. Sundstrom to Richard A. Shields. You'll have to get out the old Odds board to find out what Mr. Shields paid. The county recorder's office says $220,000, subject to a mortgage of $200,000. C. V. Brownell, who represented all parties, reports the price as $230,000, subject to $200,000.

The prices paid for the two loop fees reported in this department yesterday were disclosed at the county recorder's office. The Trust and Savings Building paid $400,000 for the 42nd at 2135. South Clark, and the southwest corner of Washington and Dearborn was valued at $500,000 in the exchange with A. C. Thompson of Brooklyn, Mass.

The theater site purchased by Joseph Trinz, reported in this column yesterday, is at the southeast corner of Mason and Madison, near Mayfield and Madison, as was given in the county recorder's office. This correction was supplied by Tuttle & Dignan, brokers in the deal.

NEW YORK.—The dry goods market showed some activity and there was considerable business transacted for May and June delivery. There were some inquiries for July and August, but interest in these months gradually subsided. Prices either held firm or strengthened.
